

Inflation News Slightly Better

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose three-tenths of a per cent in October, the government said today. It was the smallest increase in seven months as the nation's inflation rate continued its moderating trend. The increase in the Consumer Price Index followed a rise of four-tenths of a per cent in September and monthly advances of five-tenths of a per cent during the June-August period.

The Labor Department said October's price increase was the smallest since a two-tenths of a per cent rise last March. Over the past 12 months, retail prices have risen 5.3 per cent, marking the smallest increase since the 12-month period ending in April 1973, when they rose 5.1 per cent.

In a separate report, the department said the purchasing power of the average worker's paycheck rose last month after declining in August and September.

Today's economic reports were bright spots in an otherwise bleak picture of high unemployment and slow economic growth.

Wholesale industrial prices, which are influential in setting the over-all inflation trend, have been rising steadily since May. However, these higher wholesale prices have not yet shown at the retail level.

In October, the consumer price index stood at 173.3, meaning that a market basket of goods and services costing $100 in 1967 now costs $173.30. The index is not adjusted to discount seasonal influences, as are the percentage increases.

Alan Greenspan, President Ford's chief economist, tended to discount the wholesale price trend in a speech Thursday to the Rubber Manufacturers Association. He said "There is just no corroborating evidence" to support the idea of a new outburst of inflation.

Greenspan said the long-term inflation rate is slowing down and, in what appeared to be a warning to President-elect Jimmy Carter, predicted that the downward trend will continue if the government reduces its budget deficit by following "sensible fiscal and monetary policies."

Greenspan also acknowledged that the economic slowdown has continued longer than expected, but he said there is no danger of a recession.

Carter has said that he may ask for a tax cut if the economy doesn't show more strength by January.

Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board said Thursday that conditions don't appear bad enough at this time to warrant a tax cut to stimulate the economy.

"I see no advantage in a tax cut at the present time," he said in a speech Thursday to the U.S. League of Savings Associations in New York.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reported that the economy was even weaker last summer than preliminary estimates indicated.

The Gross National Product, or the total output of goods and services, grew at an annual rate of 3.8 per cent during the July-September quarter. That was lower than the initial estimate last month of a 4 per cent growth rate, the rate generally considered sufficient to keep up with normal population growth.

Senior Citizens Hold Thanksgiving Dinner, Program

THANKSGIVING DINNER — The decision was not "what," but rather "how much" for the over 150 people who attended the annual Thanksgiving Dinner sponsored by the Senior Citizens of Pickaway County. Recreation Funds provided the turkey, and the Seniors provided a wealth of holiday trimmings as covered dishes.

Over 150 members and guests of Pickaway Senior Center held their annual Thanksgiving Dinner and program in the Lutheran Parish House Thursday. During the morning hours they played games and visited.

Gladden Troutman offered the table prayer and then a turkey dinner was served.

The kitchen committee responsible for all of the preparations, including cooking three turkeys and making enough dressing for everyone was given a big vote of thanks for their work. These people were: Ruth Miranda, Connie Howell, Pauline Jones, Margaret Ater, Leona Crites, Ethel Lake and Helen Weidman.

Special guests for the day were Steve Jones, Dave Amey and Marion Sines of The Herald staff, Penny Dietrich from Circle-D Bowling Lanes, Ann Ramey and Sharon Eyerman from PICCA.

Those having November birthdays were honored by having first choice of the desserts and were sung to by the group. Those present for this event were: Fred Howell, Florence Jury, Regina Helwagen, Ernest Weller, Nellie Bumgarner, Yette Dudleson, Priscilla Downing, Golda Paxton, Pauline Pearce, Martha Hitler, Goldie Hill, Helen Valentine, Ethel Lane, Robin Jones, Mildred Turner and Forrest Rinehart.

Fred Howell presided over the business meeting and program. Lucille Scott led group singing of familiar Thanksgiving songs, and appropriate readings were given by Mildred Turner, Lucille Scott and Jennie Eccard. A Thanksgiving meditation was presented by the Rev. Henry A. Walters.

The annual Christmas dinner will be held in the same place on Dec. 16. There will also be an evening Christmas dinner on Dec. 1, with the evening's entertainment provided by the Elks Singers. Guests are always welcome at any of these affairs.

Ministrike Hits GM; Talks Resume

DETROIT (AP) — About 80,000 United Auto Workers struck 16 key General Motors plants today as bargainiers, meeting through the night, closed in on a new national contract.

"It was simply a matter of their running out of time," said one source close to the talks. He said the two sides were "very close," adding a settlement could come "within hours."

While the 16 selected plants were idled effective at midnight, about 100 other GM plants across the country continued operating in compliance with orders from the UAW.

Company officials said the walkout could cripple GM's sprawling 21-state production network within a week and industry analysts have said a GM shutdown would also start hurting the U.S. economy in about a week.

Three assembly or body plants in Michigan became the first casualties of the walkout's ripple effect and were to be closed today. Some 13,000 workers would be affected by those shutdowns, downs.

The selective, seven-state walkout — concentrated in the Midwest and particularly Michigan — came after negotiators failed before a midnight deadline to fashion an agreement covering 390,000 hourly GM employees at more than 110 plants.

"The UAW-General Motors contract has expired," UAW President Leonard

Woodcock and Vice President Irving Bluestone announced in a brief prepared statement issued to reporters as the strike deadline passed.

Employment of the ministrike strategy by the UAW is a first for the union over a national agreement. It also marks the first time the UAW has waged two major auto strikes in one year since it first won collective bargaining rights in 1937.

A 28-day strike at Ford Motor Co. last month achieved the industry's pattern agreement. A similar pact was ratified with Chrysler Corp. on Wednesday.

Plants initially idled by the selective strike include six assembly plants, six parts plants and four Fisher Body facilities. Seven plants with 47,600 workers are in Michigan. Of the other plants, three were in Ohio, two in Indiana and one each in New York, Georgia, Illinois and Wisconsin.

The last time GM was hit with a nationwide strike was in 1970, when a 67-day UAW strike turned out to be the costliest in American labor history. The walkout exhausted the UAW's $120 million strike fund and forced the union to borrow another $40 million.

The strike fund presently holds $155 million, down from a record $180 million. The fund was depleted a bit by the Ford walkout, which affected 170,000 workers, and a 39-day strike by 26,000 workers against Deere & Co.

Highlight of the Ford pattern agreement is a start in the union's eventual goal of a four-day work week. Other provisions include general wage boosts of 3 per cent a year plus 20 cents an hour in the first year; continued cost-of-living protection; improved layoff and health care benefits, and cash bonuses of up to $600 for retirees.

Under the old contract, the average GM worker made $6.88 an hour in wages and received benefits estimated at $4 per hour.

John Leist Named To Crime Alert Advisory Committee

The Ohio Chapter of R.E.A.C.T., a part of R.E.A.C.T. International, Inc., representing thousands of CB owners throughout the state was founded to aid law enforcement by relaying messages during police, fire or medical emergencies.

John Leist, 8341 Old Tarlton Pike, president of the Ohio Chapter of R.E.A.C.T. has been named to the Operation Crime Alert Advisory Committee, bringing with him the cooperation and support of every Ohio R.E.A.C.T. member. The success of the Crime Alert campaign hinges on the dedication and hard work of every Ohioan in fighting crime.

The philosophy of crime prevention is a concept dating back to England in 1829 when Sir Robert Peel envisioned a new concept in dealing with the crime that ran unchecked on the continent.

This long sought but illusive ideal was accompanied by the common practice of deporting undesirable, time hardened criminals to the suspected terrors of the newly born United States.

Crime prevention became relegated to a back seat, practiced more in conjecture and wishful thinking than in actual practice. As America grew and expanded, lawlessness in the frontier was the rule, rather than the exception.

In the late 1960s, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration was founded as a guiding hand in implementing previously unattainable goals in the criminal justice communities.

Crime prevention, the detection and apprehension of criminals has long been the responsibility of modern day law enforcement. However, long standing, artificially created barriers restricted the ability of the general citizenry to assist the police attain the level of cooperation and efficiency desired.

L.E.A.A., in response to the needs of the state planning agencies, took a renewed interest in crime prevention philosophy and initiated the category of L.E.A.A. grants to address the need for state subsidy of local crime prevention campaigns.

Through the early '70s, effective crime prevention programs were few and far between. Many community based action programs were vigorously attacking the challenge with some measure of success, but were severely restricted by their narrow geographic impact.

State coordination of community based crime prevention programs were widely scattered, and although many state level agencies throughout the country offered grants for community relations projects, statewide coordination of crime prevention was generally held together by a loose set of individually interpreted standards.

Private industry, notably insurance and security firms, recognized growing public demand and offered constructive suggestions and in some cases financial support. However, the general public, private industry and state remained largely incommunicado with one another's frustrated efforts.

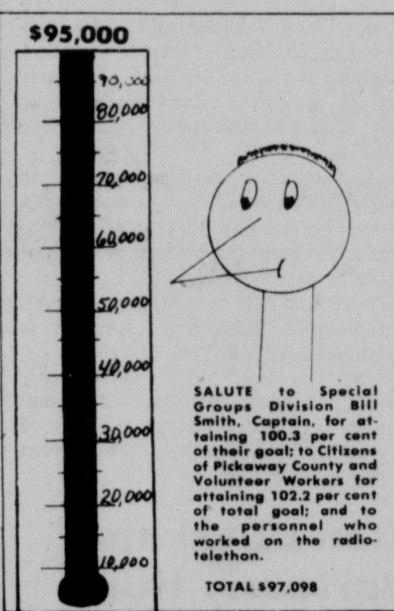

In the early winter months of 1975, the newly named 21 member Ohio Criminal Justice Supervisory Commission, the policy body for the Department of Economic and Community Development's Administration of Justice Division, mandated that fully 15 per cent of Ohio's L.E.A.A. block 'C' grant would be directed toward a newly created category, citizen involvement in crime prevention.

School Tax Woes Near Crisis Levels

CHICAGO (AP) — Voter resistance to school tax hikes has grown so strong that schools face severe curtailment of services — or even collapse — unless they get more federal and state assistance, big-city school superintendents say.

"Don't think you can get the cities straightened out if you don't get the schools straightened out," Vincent Reed, superintendent of Washington, D.C., public schools told a meeting of heads of 27 major city school systems here.

The three-day conference of the Council of the Great City Schools, which opened Thursday, was called to develop urban educational priorities that the superintendents hope President-elect Jimmy Carter will adopt.

Sam Husk, council executive vice president, said he would like the federal government to add $3 billion to the nearly $5 billion it now pays of the $60-billion annual tab for public education.

Carter has said he favors bolstering federal educational aid by eliminating the ban on using revenue-sharing funds for schools. He also proposed creation of a separate Department of Education.

Speakers at the meeting cited the recent shutdown of several small districts in Ohio and Oregon after voters refused to pass higher tax levies. They also pointed to the struggle of many larger districts to remain solvent.

"It's created a situation in Detroit whereby we have to constantly battle just to keep our heads above water," said that city's school chief, Arthur Jefferson.

He said Detroit voters this month rejected for the second time this year a tax increase that would have brought in an estimated $38 million to the schools.

Jefferson attributed the resistance to massive urban unemployment, the "lost credibility" of schools as test scores plummet and the concentration of the poor and aged in central cities.

William Pearson, governmental relations director of St. Louis public schools, said his district tried at least half a dozen times before finally passing a tax levy last spring.

Denver Supt. Louis Kishkunas said voters in his city routinely have turned down school tax increases, adding that "this year we had to cut $11 million out of our budget because of it."

Carter Silent On Tax Cut Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders who met with President-elect Jimmy Carter did not team up to urge an economy-boosting tax cut and Carter gave no indication of a decision, one of the participants says.

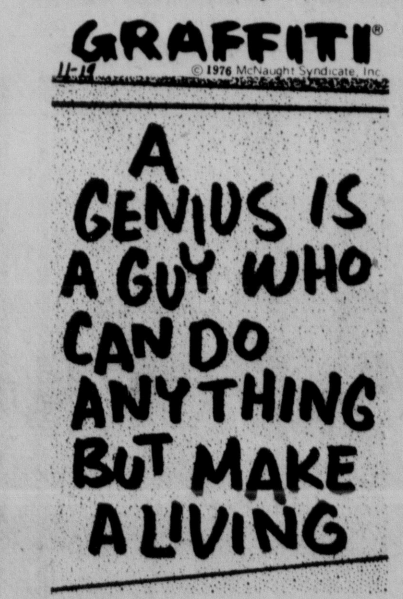

Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., said the problem of stimulating business and reducing unemployment was extensively discussed during the three-hour session Wednesday in Lovejoy, Ga., where Carter met with Democratic leaders.

"I did not detect a unanimity of the leadership concerning a tax cut," Mahon said.

Carter has said that if the economy does not begin improving by January, there is a "strong possibility" that he would ask for a tax cut to stimulate it.

Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and a fiscal conservative, said he and others told Carter that a major consideration should be restoring business confidence and that Carter appointments would be important in this regard.

"The business community and people generally are uneasy, wondering, apprehensive," Mahon said in an interview Thursday. "If he could get some good strong people for secretary of the Treasury, director of management and budget and secretary of commerce, it would have a stabilizing influence....

Carter has been receiving conflicting advice as to whether he should support a tax cut, a boost in government spending, or neither.

"He didn't talk like a freewheeling big spender," Mahon said of the Carter meeting. "He talked of a balanced budget over the long range and his desire to eliminate waste, and generally I thought it was a good down-to-earth discussion."

Mahon said Carter gave the congressional visitors his private telephone number and promised that calls at any time would be put through or promptly returned.

"The country is weary of the controversy between the president and Congress," he said. "For the White House and Congress to be of the same party imposes an awesome responsibility on the Democratic leadership. The buck stops with the Democrats."

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market surged ahead again today after the government reported the smallest increase in consumer prices in seven months.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up more than two points after early trades.

And stocks advancing in price on the New York Stock Exchange led those declining by a nearly 4-1 margin.

Trading was active in the early going, with the NYSE ticker tape five minutes late at one point in recording trades.

The labor Department reported as the session opened that its consumer price index rose three-tenths of a per cent in October, following a four-tenths of a per cent increase in September. It was the smallest increase since March.

Separately, the department said that the purchasing power of the average worker's paycheck rose last month after declining in August and September.

Early prices today included City Investing, up ¼ at 13¾; General Electric, up ½ at 52; and Vetco Inc., up ¾ at 18½.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average surged ahead 12.05 points to close at 950.13.

Blacks Fight Bar Exam Failures

CLEVELAND (AP) — Four black law graduates of Cleveland State who failed their bar exams sued Thursday to try to block swearing in ceremonies for more than 1,200 persons who did get passing grades this week.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas Lambros denied the request for a temporary restraining order against today's swearing in at Columbus.

Lambros' opinion indicated that the four failed to convince the court that they would be irreparably harmed by the induction of those who passed the exam.

The suit charged that the Ohio Supreme Court and the Board of Bar Examiners historically has discriminated against blacks. Of the 1,350 persons who took the exam, 89 per cent passed, but only 40 per cent of the blacks taking the test got passing grades, the petition said.

One of the four, Lawrence Kaigler of Cleveland, a Vietnam War veteran, said he was "shocked beyond belief" that he failed the test by 6½ points. He blamed the scoring on arbitrariness and inexactness of the grading system.

Another plaintiff, James Gay of Cleveland, said he had taken the test three times and failed each time by 4½ points or less.

A Page Of Opinion

Recognizing The Producer

Once again the issue of a possible federal income tax cut has been raised — not in the context of permitting the producer to retain more of his earnings, but as a pump-priming mechanism of government.

A possible tax cut in 1977 was one of the major points made by President-elect Jimmy Carter in his first post-election press conference. But it was made on an iffy basis, the big if being the state of the economy in January.

If, said the next chief executive, the economy is still sluggish at the time of his inauguration there is a good chance he will recommend a tax cut aimed at the lower income levels. The Carter tax view, in this instance at least, follows the classic pattern of the New Deal and Keynesian economists dating back at least 40 years, that juggling government fiscal policies can bring about needed changes in the economy.

Increasing or decreasing federal income tax rates is a favorite weapon of the fiscal theorists. Focusing tax cuts at the lowest income levels is supposed to stimulate the economy fastest because these are the people who spend most and save less of their incomes.

It is a policy which may be sound politically, but it ignores two factors: the great need for capital accumulation in the years ahead to expand the economy's potential and the growing sentiment among taxpayers in general that the tax burden they carry is becoming oppressive.

Even a President who appreciates the taxpayers' right to a greater share of his earnings would have to move slowly because of heavy federal budget deficits. But greater recognition to tax earners, as opposed to tax spenders, would be welcomed.

Uncle Willy

By JIM BISHOP

The family seldom mentioned Uncle Willy. He was 300 pounds of whistling wheeze. There was no neck on his shoulders, just a bowling ball. He had bowed legs like parentheses. In a town where the numbers racket was run by the politicians, Uncle Willy was an independent.

This can cause a fella to get his legs straightened free. He also booked horses and bet on them. He never bet on Aunt Millie and their three girls. Sometimes he came home to the cold-water flat with a hat full of money. More frequently, he had a hat full of sweat.

He walked like a frantic rocking horse. The cops frisked him once a month - like the landlord. Uncle Willy had a pocket full of numbers, which he claimed were phone numbers of his friends. "Since when," a patrolman said, "do phone numbers come in threes?"

Willy had a wonderful disposition. He was smiling all the time, when he was punching a competitor. He tipped his hat to ladies and churches and elderly men. Once, when he was stony, he gave a tip in the third at Arlington to a deaf and dumb beggar.

A long time before, Uncle Willy had a speakeasy. It was a green dump with an odor of early men's room. The laborers came in at five on their way home. Willy wore long underwear, carpet slippers and a white apron under the arm pits.

He always said, "What'll it be, gents?" even though he only had gin and ginger ale. The ginger ale wasn't homemade. Willy charged a quarter a belt. Anybody who bought two got one back.

One day a stranger came in. Uncle Willy knew he was trouble because the man had a tie. "What'll it be?" he said, spreading his frankfurter fingers on the bar. "A pink lady," the man said.

The great grace of the Irish is never, never to admit ignorance. Uncle Willy went out to the kitchen to meditate. He thought and thought.

He put two chunks of ice in a tall glass. Then he poured the gin. And a little ginger ale. After that came a bottle of ketchup. He stirred. "Here's your pink lady," he said to the dude. The man sipped.

When he departed, the stranger left a half a buck on the counter. "Just a minute, sir," said Uncle Willy. "We don't allow no tips around here." The man kept walking. "That ain't no tip," he snarled. "I just want you to try one of them damn things."

He used to pray to St. Joseph to keep the customers from hitting him on the numbers. St. Joseph was deaf as a bat. The suckers hit him good. Uncle Willy asked the saint to give him a sign what horse to bet on in a stake race. Two pennies fell out of his pocket.

Willy bet the two horses, a long shot. The eight came in by 15. Unk got mad. He stopped a priest on the street and gave him the sob. "Maybe," the cleric said, "you misread the sign, Willy. Maybe he was trying to tell you that, as a handicapper, he wasn't worth two cents."

A kosher butcher gave him a live turkey. The man intended the gift for Aunt Millie and the three kids. Thanksgiving was coming up. The turkey made a big man of Willy.

He put it in the cellar. It strutted over the coal, looking like a winner. The little girls fed it corn and water. They called it Bozo. Within a week it became the love of their lives.

The day before Thanksgiving, Aunt Millie told Unk to kill it. The butcher forgot to tell Willy how to knock off a turkey. The kids were at school. He decided to drag it up to the roof and drop it on its head in the alley.

He carried the bird four flights of stairs upside down. It tried to bite him. Unk swore he would fix the turkey. He walked to the edge of the roof and held it head down. "Here you go, my lovely," he murmured and it began to fall head down toward the concrete.

Halfway down it spread its wings and flapped off through the clothesline. A roar emerged from Willy. "Millie!" he screamed. "I didn't know the damn things could fly."

Down the corner was a superstitious old biddy named Mrs. Haggerty. As Uncle Willy chased the bird, she came out on her stoop in a hysterical state. "A banshee just flew into me bathroom!" she screamed. "I got it locked up."

Aunt Millie defeathered and eviscerated the fowl for Thanksgiving. The family said a prayer of thanks for the kosher butcher. Willy took a carving knife and hacked a leg off the turkey. Millie said, "Poor poor Bozo." The three girls burst into tears. Nobody ate...

LAFF - A - DAY

"And I say you are double-parked, lady!"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband, who is strong as an ox, had a heart attack at 50. He survived it. Now, I think he's heading for another one because he refuses to cut down on his tensions and physical activity. Can you help me convince him that he ought to slow down?

Mrs. R. O., Ind.

Dear Mrs. O.:

Some people, like your husband, never learn. Others benefit from the terrible experience of a heart attack. I have known many men who would not think of giving up cigarettes, cutting down on their weight, or slowing down the pressures of work UNTIL they have a first heart attack. Then they become little angels, and from the moment that they're brought to the emergency room of the hospital, cigarette smoking stops and they welcome a 900 calorie diet. They quickly learn, too, that the office can get along without them.

In most instances, when recovery is complete, men who have been given a second chance at life continue to spare their heart. They no longer smoke, they maintain sensible diets and modify their working habits.

In addition, they adhere to a regime of exercise specifically patterned after their need.

How one can convince a strong-willed, stubborn person that his life is at stake is difficult to say. Nagging certainly won't do it. It may, in fact, do the very reverse.

With the help of your doctor, you may be able to plan a sensible approach that will help your husband maintain good health.

I would like to call attention to the fact that there is a group of people who, after a heart attack, go to the opposite extreme of your husband. Having completely recovered from the attack, they still live the fearful life of a chronic invalid. Even though the electrocardiogram may be normal, the mind and the emotions have not kept pace with the physical recovery.

They live in terror that another heart attack will occur. They are victims of their own fragile emotions. Instead of enjoying the gift of a new life they pamper themselves to the point of living their lives in a constant state of fear.

In between the extremes of your husband's behavior and these patients, there are many mature ways of reconstructing and enjoying one's life after a heart attack.

Pair Held In Theft Of Checks

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two Cincinnati men have been charged by federal authorities for possession of $200,000 worth of stolen Consolidated Rail Corp. (Conrail) checks.

Robert J. Watenkamp, 30, manager of a suburban Wilford, Ohio, pizzeria, was arrested Wednesday night and held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

William O'Callaghan, 30, operator of a suburban amusement store, was released earlier on bond. O'Callaghan, who dropped out of the May Democratic primary election as a candidate for the Ohio House of Representatives, also figured as the intended victim of a murder attempt by six teenagers.

The U.S. Attorney's office, in a hearing before U.S. Magistrate Vincent Aug. indicated that between 80 and 90 checks were recovered. They were stolen from the mails in Philadelphia, Pa., authorities said.

Both men were accused of possession of the checks, which were payable to Conrail. The U.S. Attorney's office said the pair opened accounts at a Cincinnati bank and deposited the stolen checks.

Hamilton County sheriff's deputies arrested the six teenagers Oct. 1 outside O'Callaghan's Colerain Township store.

Deputies said the youths believed O'Callaghan had been a police informant. O'Callaghan denied that.

Officers said some weapons taken from the youths, who were later indicted, had been stolen in a burglary.

Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — Bankers, government officials and economists are closely watching the trend of commercial and industrial loans at New York City banks for clues to the immediate economic future.

Interest is especially keen because of the huge falloff in such loans ever since the economy began to emerge from the recession of 1973-1974.

Based on previous recovery patterns, a fairly robust recovery in loans should be due in the early months of the administration of President Carter, but the prospect at this time remains a bit uncertain.

The big decline isn't totally unexplained, because the growth of loans relative to growth in Gross National Product traditionally begins to lag as the economic recovery begins.

But the decline between January 1975 and this past September was unusually severe, "the largest and longest-lasting drop in loans since the 1930s," according to Citibank. It measured the decline at 21 per cent.

In the aftermath of other recessions since the 1960s, loan growth also slowed and briefly turned negative. Nevertheless, the year-to-year growth in such loans has been positive.

It is only in the past two years that there have been actual year-to-year declines, rather than in-trayear declines that became averaged out in the annual statistics.

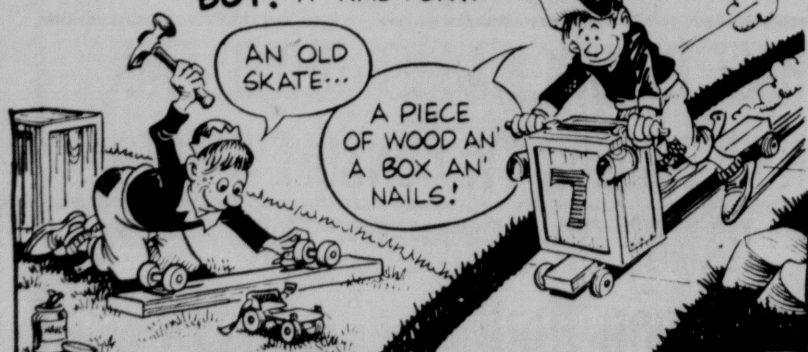

The big bank-holding company, parent of First National City Bank, nevertheless is optimistic that demand should pick up during the first quarter of 1977. In fact, it finds indications that the resumption of demand already might be under way.

Outside New York City, it notes, loan portfolios of all commercial banks have been rising at an annual rate of 9 per cent since June, and that since Labor Day an increase in business loan demand has been observed here also.

This, too, follows the patterns after the recessions of 1960-1961 and 1969-1970, in which "outside" banks began to observe strength in loans before the larger and far more highly publicized banks here.

A Page Of Opinion

Recognizing The Producer

Once again the issue of a possible federal income tax cut has been raised — not in the context of permitting the producer to retain more of his earnings, but as a pump-priming mechanism of government.

A possible tax cut in 1977 was one of the major points made by President-elect Jimmy Carter in his first post-election press conference. But it was made on an iffy basis, the big if being the state of the economy in January.

If, said the next chief executive, the economy is still sluggish at the time of his inauguration there is a good chance he will recommend a tax cut aimed at the lower income levels. The Carter tax view, in this instance at least, follows the classic pattern of the New Deal and Keynesian economists dating back at least 40 years, that juggling government fiscal policies can bring about needed changes in the economy.

Increasing or decreasing federal income tax rates is a favorite weapon of the fiscal theorists. Focusing tax cuts at the lowest income levels is supposed to stimulate the economy fastest because these are the people who spend most and save less of their incomes.

It is a policy which may be sound politically, but it ignores two factors: the great need for capital accumulation in the years ahead to expand the economy's potential and the growing sentiment among taxpayers in general that the tax burden they carry is becoming oppressive.

Even a President who appreciates the taxpayers' right to a greater share of his earnings would have to move slowly because of heavy federal budget deficits. But greater recognition to tax earners, as opposed to tax spenders, would be welcomed.

Uncle Willy

By JIM BISHOP

The family seldom mentioned Uncle Willy. He was 300 pounds of whistling wheeze. There was no neck on his shoulders, just a bowling ball. He had bowed legs like parentheses. In a town where the numbers racket was run by the politicians, Uncle Willy was an independent.

This can cause a fella to get his legs straightened free. He also booked horses and bet on them. He never bet on Aunt Millie and their three girls. Sometimes he came home to the cold-water flat with a hat full of money. More frequently, he had a hat full of sweat.

He walked like a frantic rocking horse. The cops frisked him once a month — like the landlord. Uncle Willy had a pocket full of numbers, which he claimed were phone numbers of his friends. "Since when," a patrolman said, "do phone numbers come in threes?"

Willy had a wonderful disposition. He was smiling all the time, when he was punching a competitor. He tipped his hat to ladies and churches and elderly men. Once, when he was stony, he gave a tip in the third at Arlington to a deaf and dumb beggar.

A long time before, Uncle Willy had a speakeasy. It was a green dump with an odor of early men's room. The laborers came in at five on their way home. Willy wore long underwear, carpet slippers and a white apron under the arm pits.

He always said, "What'll it be, gents?" even though he only had gin and ginger ale. The ginger ale wasn't homemade. Willy charged a quarter a belt. Anybody who bought two got one back.

One day a stranger came in. Uncle Willy knew he was trouble because the man had a tie. "What'll it be?" he said, spreading his frankfurter fingers on the bar. "A pink lady," the man said. The great grace of the Irish is never, never to admit ignorance. Uncle Willy went out to the kitchen to meditate. He thought and thought.

He put two chunks of ice in a tall glass. Then he poured the gin. And a little ginger ale. After that came a bottle of ketchup. He stirred. "Here's your pink lady," he said to the dude. The man sipped.

When he departed, the stranger left a half a buck on the counter. "Just a minute, sir," said Uncle Willy. "We don't allow no tips around here." The man kept walking. "That ain't no tip," he snarled. "I just want you to try one of them damn things."

He used to pray to St. Joseph to keep the customers from hitting him on the numbers. St. Joseph was deaf as a bat. The suckers hit him good. Uncle Willy asked the saint to give him a sign what horse to bet on in a stake race. Two pennies fell out of his pocket.

Willy bet the two horse, a long shot. The eight came in by 15. Ungot got mad. He stopped a priest on the street and gave him the sob. "Maybe," the cleric said, "you misread the sign, Willy. Maybe he was trying to tell you that, as a handicapper, he wasn't worth two cents."

A kosher butcher gave him a live turkey. The man intended the gift for Aunt Millie and the three kids. Thanksgiving was coming up. The turkey made a big man of Willy.

He put it in the cellar. It strutted over the coal, looking like a winner. The little girls fed it corn and water. They called it Bozo. Within a week it became the love of their lives.

The day before Thanksgiving, Aunt Millie told Ung to kill it. The butcher forgot to tell Willy how to knock off a turkey. The kids were at school. He decided to drag it up to the roof and drop it on its head in the alley.

He carried the bird four flights of stairs upside down. It tried to bite him. Ung swore he would fix the turkey. He walked to the edge of the roof and held it head down. "Here you go, my lovely," he murmured and it began to fall head down toward the concrete.

Halfway down it spread its wings and flapped off through the clothesline. A roar emerged from Willy. "Millie!" he screamed. "I didn't know the damn things could fly."

Down the corner was a superstitious old biddy named Mrs. Haggerty. As Uncle Willy chased the bird, she came out on her stoop in a hysterical state. "A banshee just flew into me bathroom!" she screamed. "I got it locked up."

Aunt Millie defeated and eviscerated the fowl for Thanksgiving. The family said a prayer of thanks for the kosher butcher. Willy took a carving knife and hacked a leg off the turkey. Millie said, "Poor poor Bozo." The three girls burst into tears. Nobody ate ...

"And I say you are double-parked, lady!"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband, who is strong as an ox, had a heart attack at 50. He survived it. Now, I think he's heading for another one because he refuses to cut down on his tensions and physical activity. Can you help me convince him that he ought to slow down?

Mrs. R. O., Ind.

Dear Mrs. O.:

Some people, like your husband, never learn. Others benefit from the terrible experience of a heart attack. I have known many men who would not think of giving up cigarettes, cutting down on their weight, or slowing down the pressures of work UNTIL they have a first heart attack. Then they become little angels, and from the moment that they're brought to the emergency room of the hospital, cigarette smoking stops and they welcome a 900 calorie diet. They quickly learn, too, that the office can get along without them.

In most instances, when recovery is complete, men who have been given a second chance at life continue to spare their heart. They no longer smoke, they maintain sensible diets and modify their working habits.

In addition, they adhere to a regime of exercise specifically patterned after their need.

How one can convince a strong-willed, stubborn person that his life is at stake is difficult to say. Nagging certainly won't do it. It may, in fact, do the very reverse.

With the help of your doctor, you may be able to plan a sensible approach that will help your husband maintain good health.

I would like to call attention to the fact that there is a group of people who, after a heart attack, go to the opposite extreme of your husband. Having completely recovered from the attack, they still live the fearful life of a chronic invalid. Even though the electrocardiogram may be normal, the mind and the emotions have not kept pace with the physical recovery.

They live in terror that another heart attack will occur. They are victims of their own fragile emotions. Instead of enjoying the gift of a new life they pamper themselves to the point of living their lives in a constant state of fear.

In between the extremes of your husband's behavior and these patients, there are many mature ways of reconstructing and enjoying one's life after a heart attack.

Pair Held In Theft Of Checks

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two Cincinnati men have been charged by federal authorities for possession of $200,000 worth of stolen Consolidated Rail Corp. (Conrail) checks.

Robert J. Watenkamp, 30, manager of a suburban Wilford, Ohio, pizzeria, was arrested Wednesday night and held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

William O'Callaghan, 30, operator of a suburban amusement store, was released earlier on bond. O'Callaghan, who dropped out of the May Democratic primary election as a candidate for the Ohio House of Representatives, also figured as the intended victim of a murder attempt by six teenagers.

The U.S. Attorney's office, in a hearing before U.S. Magistrate Vincent Aug, indicated that between 80 and 90 checks were recovered. They were stolen from the mails in Philadelphia, Pa., authorities said.

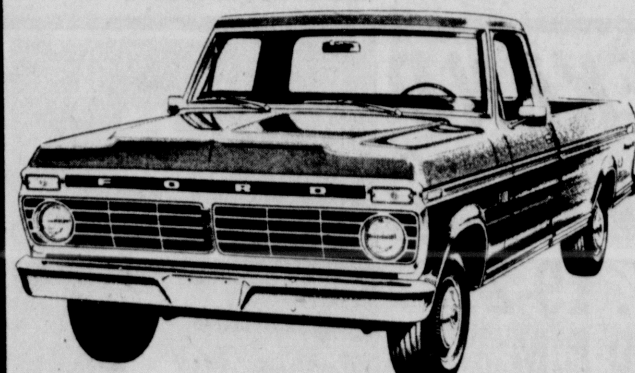

Both men were accused of possession of the checks, which were payable to Conrail. The U.S. Attorney's office said the pair opened accounts at a Cincinnati bank and deposited the stolen checks.

Hamilton County sheriff's deputies arrested the six teenagers Oct. 1 outside O'Callaghan's Colerain Township store.

Deputies said the youths believed O'Callaghan had been a police informant. O'Callaghan denied that.

Officers said some weapons taken from the youths, who were later indicted, had been stolen in a burglary.

3 Ohio GM Plants Struck

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three of the 16 General Motors Corp. plants targeted by the United Auto Workers for strikes at Thursday midnight were in Ohio. The UAW and another company reached a tentative agreement that affects workers in a fourth Ohio location.

The UAW, in an unprecedented action, launched a selective "mini-strike" against the 16 key GM plants at 12:01 a.m. EST Friday. The action came after bargainers failed to reach accord on a new national contract for 390,000 workers.

The singled out GM facilities are the Fisher Body plants at Cleveland, Hamilton and Mansfield. The UAW's contract expired at midnight, and the union opted for selected shutdowns instead of going nationwide.

Big UAW locals at the sprawling General Motors Lordstown complex had announced earlier that they would not be affected.

A GM spokesman said the company has a total of about 49,500 workers in Ohio plants.

Neighbor Delivers A Heart To Heart

DEAR ABBY: The letter from TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING, concerning a neighbor who was wearing out her welcome, is similar to the problem I encountered. This neighbor would pop in on me often, and always without notice. Sometimes I was entertaining a relative or another friend, and frequently I had a lot of work to do and no time for a social visit. I became frustrated and didn't know how to tell her without hurting her feelings.

Finally, in desperation, I took this nice neighbor into my bedroom and closed the door. Then I explained that I really liked her and valued her friendship, but there were times when I wanted to be alone with my friends or family, and as a favor to me to please phone to see if it was all right to come over.

She was very understanding, and thanked me for being honest with her. Now she visits me less often and always phones first. Today we are the best of friends.

Abby, if we would all speak our minds honestly and with love, we could accomplish much.

G.S. IN VA.

DEAR G.S.: Read on for a letter from a woman who lacked your compassion and lived to regret it!

DEAR ABBY: I am a recently retired woman who once enjoyed a successful and fulfilling business career. I've remained single by choice.

I live alone, but I'm far from lonely. I have all the friends I want. I like my privacy and have never encouraged visitors to drop in.

The high-rise in which I live has excellent security, and no one gets into the building without being screened.

One evening about 7:30, there was a knock on my door. I wasn't expecting anyone so I asked who was there. It was a widow who lives on my floor, and with whom I had had only a nodding acquaintance. She said she was "lonely," and didn't know what to do with herself, and asked if she could come in and visit for a while.

I told her politely but bluntly that I was busy, and didn't approve of visitors dropping in without phoning first. (I have an unlisted phone number, which I did not give her.) She apologized for bothering me and left.

Abby, I've always felt that people who intrude on others should be treated with the same lack of consideration they give those upon whom they intrude. I felt quite proud of myself for not getting trapped by a bore who would probably be difficult to get rid of.

The next evening a friend telephoned to ask if I knew the woman in my building who had committed suicide the evening before.

If you have already guessed that she was the woman who knocked on my door, you are right.

One evening about 7:30, there was a knock on my door. I wasn't expecting anyone so I asked who was there. It was a widow who lives on my floor, and with whom I had had a nodding acquaintance. She said she was "lonely," and didn't know what to do with herself, and asked if she could come in and visit for a while.

I told her politely but bluntly that I was busy, and didn't approve of visitors dropping in without phoning first. (I have an unlisted phone number, which I did not give her.) She apologized for bothering me and left.

Abby, I've always felt that people who intrude on others should be treated with the same lack of consideration they give those upon whom they intrude. I felt quite proud of myself for not getting trapped by a bore who would probably be difficult to get rid of.

The next evening a friend telephoned to ask if I knew the woman in my building who had committed suicide the evening before.

If you have already guessed that she was the woman who knocked on my door, you are right.

Two People Injured In Accident

Two people were injured when a car slammed into the rear of a farm truck 12:25 a.m. Friday on Route 23 just north of the Ohio State Highway Patrol Post.

James E. Bingman, 22, 825 Atwater Ave., a Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff, and a passenger in his car, Larry L. Mayo, 22, 1162 Atwater Ave., were treated at Berger Hospital's emergency room for injuries they suffered in the accident.

Bingman was treated for a contusion to the right side of his face, and Mayo was treated for small lacerations to his face and a possible laceration injury.

Driver of the farm truck, which was loaded with hay, was Henry L. Grismore, 70, Jenera.

Both vehicles were traveling south on Route 23, according to the report of OSP Sgt. R. L. Thompson, and Bingman was traversing a hill crest when he spotted the farm truck in his lane.

He attempted to drive to the left to avoid a collision, but his car struck the rear of the truck and continued off the right side of the road.

The accident is under investigation.

Church Of The Nazarene Setting For Wedding Vows

MR. AND MRS. DANE PATRICK CONLEY

The Circleville Church of the Nazarene was the setting for the wedding of Miss Robin Lynn Whitaker and Mr. Dane Patrick Conley, 7:30 p.m., Oct. 26.

The Rev. William Hill officiated the double ring service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Whitaker, 1090 Sunshine St., Circleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hargus Conley, Route 1, Stoutsville.

The altar table was decorated with vases holding arrangements of daisies, carnations, poms, baby's breath, bittersweet and greenery, and a unity candle, lighted by the couple during the ceremony. Flanking the altar were seven branch candelabra with white bows. Each window held an epergne with a lighted taper and the pews were marked with white satin bows.

Mrs. William Hill, organist, played a program of nuptial selections preceding the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. She was attired in a full length white organza gown with a lace ruffle trim fitted bodice and lace at the wrists of the long sleeves. Reembroidered lace panels extended down the sides of the skirt to the hemline where they joined a lace and ruffled band encircling the hemline and train. A lace bonnet held the bride's fingertip veil of illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of peach roses, daisies, white poms, miniature white carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Cindy Kinney served as matron of honor for her friend. She wore a formal length bittersweet chiffon gown with a high neckline, bib and long sleeves, trimmed with matching ruffles. A deep flounce at the hemline was topped with a small ruffle. She carried a wicker basket of peach roses, white poms, miniature white carnations, baby's breath and daisies.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Becky Cockrell and Mrs. Cheryl Whitaker, sister of the bride, were gowned identically to the honor attendant in peach chiffon and carried matching baskets of flowers. The attendants all wore baby's breath in their hair.

Mrs. Karen Sabine presided at the guest book. Master Chucky Whitaker, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

Mr. Douglas Conley performed the duties of best man for his brother. Ushers were Mr. Rick Sabine, Mr. Tom Shea and Mr. Thomas Karshner.

The bride's mother selected a full length gown of mint green with coordinating jacket. The bridegroom's mother chose a floor length gown of beige. Corsages for both mothers were of peach roses with baby's breath and ribbon matching their gowns.

A reception in the Fellowship Center of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The table where the wedding cake was served was decorated with bittersweet, baby's breath and greenery. Other tables held baskets of flowers.

Gilmore, Girl Friend May Get To Talk

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Gilmore may be allowed to talk with the girl friend who joined him in an abortive suicide pact while he waits in near-isolation for a board to decide whether he'll face a firing squad.

The 35-year-old convicted murderer, who says he prefers death to prison, was cheered by fellow inmates Thursday as he returned under police escort to the Utah State Prison from a hospital. He was found unconscious in his cell on Tuesday from a sublethal overdose of sleeping pills.

His girl friend, Nicole Barrett, 20, emerged from a coma Thursday for the first time since she was hospitalized in Provo after taking sleeping pills in her apartment Tuesday. Hospital officials said she was recovering but would require treatment for several more days.

Gilmore, told of her improvement, said nothing but appeared relieved, a prison guard said.

He was placed in the prison's infirmary under what Warden Samuel Smith called "as close to solitary confinement as this prison has had in years." Asked whether Mrs. Barrett might be allowed to visit Gilmore, Smith said, "We have not closed the doors completely to that type of communication."

Smith said he has picked the secret five-man squad that would carry out the execution if the Utah Board of Pardons at its Dec. 6 meeting upholds Gilmore's death sentence for killing a motel clerk during a holdup last summer.

The board, originally scheduled to consider the matter the day after Gilmore's suicide try, could commute his sentence, but its chairman has indicated this is unlikely if Gilmore asks for death.

Meanwhile, the Utah State Bar Commission was to consider a complaint against Gilmore's attorney, Dennis Boaz, at a meeting today.

The bar's executive committee earlier said it would take no action on Boaz after informal complaints that he breached legal ethics by having a financial interest in Gilmore's fate. Boaz has acknowledged he plans to write about the case and has already accepted $250 from a British reporter whom he allowed, against prison rules, to talk to Gilmore by telephone.

Boaz again reversed his position on Gilmore's execution Thursday, apologizing to his client for a national television interview in which he said he could no longer support the state execution.

When Ohio State University opened its doors in 1873, women were admitted on an equality with men. The various church denominations which had been maintaining separate seminaries for girls, often in the same towns as their colleges, began to accept the idea of coeducation until, by the end of the 19th century, it had become the rule and exclusion the exception.

Patty Hearst May Be Freed On Bail

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Patricia Hearst was whisked out of a federal prison here in the dead of night, an official at the Metropolitan Correctional Center said today.

Her destination was unknown, but with $500,000 bond posted by her family to free her while awaiting trial in Southern California, she needed only the approval of a San Francisco judge to be free for the first time in more than a year while she appeals her bank robbery conviction.

The official at the correctional center, who declined to have his name used, said Miss Hearst was driven away by two federal marshals about 4:50 a.m. EST.

Members of a television camera crew stationed at the prison said they saw a black-and-white car speed away.

U.S. District Court Judge William Orrick, who in September sentenced Miss Hearst to seven years in prison, was expected to rule today on a request that the 22-year-old newspaper heiress be released in her parents' custody under a secret security plan.

Orrick must decide whether she is still a flight risk. She had been ordered held without bail after her capture in September 1975.

The only other obstacle to Miss Hearst's freedom was removed on Thursday when her father and uncle signed a $500,000 personal surety bond on pending Los Angeles charges of kidnap, assault and robbery.

Miss Hearst faces a January 10 trial in that case involving a wild shooting at an Inglewood, Calif., sporting goods store that occurred while she was a fugitive member of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army.

Her father, Randolph A. Hearst, president of the San Francisco Examiner, and his twin brother, David, president of the William Randolph Hearst Foundation, pledged their assets to obtain Miss Hearst's release.

Attorney Albert Johnson asked Superior Court Judge William Ritz to reduce the $500,000 bail, but the judge said he would wait to see whether Orrick sets bail.

"If she is released by the San Francisco court, and if bail is substantial in that case, I certainly would consider reduction in bond," he said.

Miss Hearst, now imprisoned at the Metropolitan Corrections Center in San Diego, has spent 14 months behind bars, including time served during her celebrated trial for the 1974 $10,050 robbery of San Francisco's Hibernia Bank.

Orrick told her during sentencing: "Miss Hearst, the violent nature of your conduct can not be condoned. Violence is unacceptable in our society and will not be tolerated."

Miss Hearst, who had been kidnapped by the SLA on Feb. 4, 1974, was defended in an eight-week trial by famed criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey. She was convicted last March 10 of armed robbery and use of a firearm.

She has since shunned her radical associates and plans to testify against them. Johnson told Orrick she should be released because she cannot be adequately protected in prison from those who might want to stop such testimony.

Gilmore, Girl Friend May Get To Talk

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Gilmore may be allowed to talk with the girl friend who joined him in an abortive suicide pact while he waits in near-isolation for a board to decide whether he'll face a firing squad.

The 35-year-old convicted murderer, who says he prefers death to prison, was cheered by fellow inmates Thursday as he returned under police escort to the Utah State Prison from a hospital. He was found unconscious in his cell on Tuesday from a sublethal overdose of sleeping pills.

His girl friend, Nicole Barrett, 20, emerged from a coma Thursday for the first time since she was hospitalized in Provo after taking sleeping pills in her apartment Tuesday. Hospital officials said she was recovering but would require treatment for several more days.

Gilmore, told of her improvement, said nothing but appeared relieved, a prison guard said.

He was placed in the prison's infirmary under what Warden Samuel Smith called "as close to solitary confinement as this prison has had in years." Asked whether Mrs. Barrett might be allowed to visit Gilmore, Smith said, "We have not closed the doors completely to that type of communication."

Smith said he has picked the secret five-man squad that would carry out the execution if the Utah Board of Pardons at its Dec. 6 meeting upholds Gilmore's death sentence for killing a motel clerk during a holdup last summer.

The board, originally scheduled to consider the matter the day after Gilmore's suicide try, could commute his sentence, but its chairman has indicated this is unlikely if Gilmore asks for death.

Meanwhile, the Utah State Bar Commission was to consider a complaint against Gilmore's attorney, Dennis Boaz, at a meeting today.

The bar's executive committee earlier said it would take no action on Boaz after informal complaints that he breached legal ethics by having a financial interest in Gilmore's fate. Boaz has acknowledged he plans to write about the case and has already accepted $250 from a British reporter whom he allowed, against prison rules, to talk to Gilmore by telephone.

Boaz again reversed his position on Gilmore's execution Thursday, apologizing to his client for a national television interview in which he said he could no longer support the state execution.

When Ohio State University opened its doors in 1873, women were admitted on an equality with men. The various church denominations which had been maintaining separate seminaries for girls, often in the same towns as their colleges, began to accept the idea of coeducation until, by the end of the 19th century, it had become the rule and exclusion the exception.

Patty Hearst May Be Freed On Bail

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Patricia Hearst was wisked out of a federal prison here in the dead of night, an official at the Metropolitan Correctional Center said today.

Her destination was unknown, but with $500,000 bond posted by her family to free her while awaiting trial in Southern California, she needed only the approval of a San Francisco judge to be free for the first time in more than a year while she appeals her bank robbery conviction.

The official at the correctional center, who declined to have his name used, said Miss Hearst was driven away by two federal marshals about 4:50 a.m. EST.

Members of a television camera crew stationed at the prison said they saw a black-and-white car speed away.

in the darkness.

U.S. District Court Judge William Orrick, who in September sentenced Miss Hearst to seven years in prison, was expected to rule today on a request that the 22-year-old newspaper heiress be released in her parents' custody under a secret security plan.

Orrick must decide whether she is still a flight risk. She had been ordered held without bail after her capture in September 1975.

The only other obstacle to Miss Hearst's freedom was removed on Thursday when her father and uncle signed a $500,000 personal surety bond on pending Los Angeles charges of kidnap, assault and robbery.

Miss Hearst faces a January 10 trial in that case involving a wild shooting at an Inglewood, Calif., sporting goods store that occurred while she was a fugitive member of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army.

Her father, Randolph A. Hearst, president of the San Francisco Examiner, and his twin brother, David, president of the William Randolph Hearst Foundation, pledged their assets to obtain Miss Hearst's release.

Attorney Albert Johnson asked Superior Court Judge William Ritz to reduce the $500,000 bail, but the judge said he would wait to see whether Orrick sets bail.

"If she is released by the San Francisco court, and if bail is substantial in that case, I certainly would consider reduction in bond," he said.

Miss Hearst, now imprisoned at the Metropolitan Corrections Center in San Diego, has spent 14 months behind bars, including time served during her celebrated trial for the 1974 $10,050 robbery of San Francisco's Hibernia Bank.

Orrick told her during sentencing: "Miss Hearst, the violent nature of your conduct can not be condoned. Violence is unacceptable in our society and will not be tolerated."

Miss Hearst, who had been kidnapped by the SLA on Feb. 4, 1974, was defended in an eight-week trial by famed criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey. She was convicted last March 10 of armed robbery and use of a firearm.

She has since shunned her radical associates and plans to testify against them. Johnson told Orrick she should be released because she cannot be adequately protected in prison from

For direct relief during the Depression of the early 1930's, Ohio's state government spent $97 million, local governments $40 million and the federal government $175 million in Ohio between 1932 and 1939—exclusive of sums spent for WPA, old age pensions and similar assistance.—AP

Independence Watchword For Baptists

NEW YORK (AP) — Independence is a watchword of the Southern Baptist churches — a principle that was behind the struggle over admission of blacks at President-elect Jimmy Carter's home church in Plains, Ga.

Although the denomination's national convention repeatedly has condemned racial discrimination and segregation, the national body has no authority over its local churches — 34,901 of them throughout the country.

They're completely autonomous, setting their own rules and policies, picking their own ministers, deciding on who is eligible for membership, admitting them by a congregational show of hands.

Just as many of those individual congregations have modified their positions in recent years to allow blacks to become members, the church in Plains last Sunday took that step.

It had long been advocated by Carter and his family, who 12 years ago had been virtually alone in taking that stand. Most members, however, held out against it until the change came under the spotlight of national attention.

Although a big proportion of Southern Baptist congregations now have open-door policies, most of them remain solidly white, as do many congregations in other major, predominantly white denominations.

In the recent past, the common worship time of 11 o'clock Sunday morning had been called the "most segregated hour" in America, and it still is extensively that way in fact but not policy, despite continuing efforts to rectify the pattern.

Some Southern Baptist congregations "regrettably follow a closed-door policy," says the denomination's president, the Rev. Dr. James L. Sullivain of Nashville, Tenn., but many others are "completely integrated."

Church historian Leon McBeth says statements by Southern Baptist leaders indicate a "new day" and "new attitude" in accepting minority races, but "our actions have never matched our rhetoric."

McBeth, of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas, says the denomination has made "significant progress in race relations," but "racism still is prevalent among us."

Since the national convention and agencies are "officially committed to equality," he says, "it gives some hope that we may gradually begin to practice what we have in the past quarter century at least begun to preach."

Nevertheless, under the Baptist system, no denominational authority can prescribe congregational conduct, nor do the denomination, a congregation or pastor have authority over the religious views of an individual member.

Self-determination is the distinctive tenet, with each person free to interpret Scripture according to his own mind and conscience. Baptists insist on individual independence in beliefs.

While this makes for many differences, the common bond is acknowledgement of Jesus as Lord and the New Testament as the guide to faith and practice.

The word "tulip" comes from the Turkish word for turban. The flower was introduced to Holland, via Austria, at the end of the 16th century.

Dr. Leonard Stigler, interim pastor of the Logan Elm Baptist Church, will preach in both services Sunday. The church holds services in the 4-H and Grange Building.

The weekend meeting at the First Church of Christ in Christian Union, 436 East Ohio Street, which begins 7:30 p.m. today, will continue through Sunday with services at 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. David Lattimer is the special speaker, and the singers will be Herb and Barb Blanton and the Young Gospels. Sunday School is at 9:30 a.m.

On Wednesday, November 24 at 7:30 p.m. the congregation of the Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union will join Emmett Chapel for the Thanksgiving service. The Rev. Roy Heimbach will be bringing the message.

For direct relief during the Depression of the early 1930's, Ohio's state government spent $97 million, local governments $40 million and the federal government $175 million in Ohio between 1932 and 1939—exclusive of sums spent for WPA, old age pensions and similar assistance.—AP

Independence Watchword For Baptists

NEW YORK (AP) — Independence is a watchword of the Southern Baptist churches — a principle that was behind the struggle over admission of blacks at President-elect Jimmy Carter's home church in Plains, Ga.

Although the denomination's national convention repeatedly has condemned racial discrimination and segregation, the national body has no authority over its local churches — 34,901 of them throughout the country.

They're completely autonomous, setting their own rules and policies, picking their own ministers, deciding on who is eligible for membership, admitting them by a congregational show of hands.

Just as many of those individual congregations have modified their positions in recent years to allow blacks to become members, the church in Plains last Sunday took that step.

It had long been advocated by Carter and his family, who 12 years ago had been virtually alone in taking that stand. Most members, however, held out against it until the change came under the spotlight of national attention.

Although a big proportion of Southern Baptist congregations now have open-door policies, most of them remain solidly white, as do many congregations in other major, predominantly white denominations.

In the recent past, the common worship time of 11 o'clock Sunday morning had been called the "most segregated hour" in America, and it still is extensively that way in fact but not policy, despite continuing efforts to rectify the pattern.

Some Southern Baptist congregations "regrettably follow a closed-door policy," says the denomination's president, the Rev. Dr. James L. Sullivain of Nashville, Tenn., but many others are "completely integrated."

Church historian Leon McBeth says statements by Southern Baptist leaders indicate a "new day" and "new attitude" in accepting minority races, but "our actions have never matched our rhetoric."

McBeth, of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas, says the denomination has made "significant progress in race relations," but "racism still is prevalent among us."

Since the national convention and agencies are "officially committed to equality," he says, "it gives some hope that we may gradually begin to practice what we have in the past quarter century at least begun to preach."

Nevertheless, under the Baptist system, no denominational authority can prescribe congregational conduct, nor do the denomination, a congregation or pastor have authority over the religious views of an individual member.

Self-determination is the distinctive tenet, with each person free to interpret Scripture according to his own mind and conscience. Baptists insist on individual independence in beliefs.

While this makes for many differences, the common bond is acknowledgement of Jesus as Lord and the New Testament as the guide to faith and practice.

The word "tulip" comes from the Turkish word for turban. The flower was introduced to Holland, via Austria, at the end of the 16th century.

Basic Rights

The Pilgrims came to America for more than land. They risked their lives and possessions to gain the right to worship freely and to live democratically. On these basic principles—liberty and equality—America was founded.

The Pilgrims left us another heritage—thanksgiving. Newly arrived in this alien land, they gave thanks to the benevolent God who guided them across the sea and who would sustain them through their first harrowing years in America.

The meaning of those early days is sometimes lost to us today in affluent America. We may forget that this prosperity is not entirely the product of our own labors, but is also the result of the beneficence of God.

Let us then celebrate our good fortune—in church and at home. Let us give thanks!

'Hee Haw' Continues Run Of Constant Popularity

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The cornfield stage set is still in place. And so are the jokes grown there.

"Hee Haw," country music's version of "The Lawrence Welk Show," continues to be one of the most successful syndicated TV shows on the air.

The show, in its eighth season, has an estimated audience of 33 million persons, up 1 million from a year ago.

It is on 227 stations and shown in every major American television market except Boston. There's a waiting list for advertisers.

Cast members and show officials cite some basic reasons for the success: appeal to the family, simple humor and the popularity of country music.

"Hee Haw," like the Welk show, got its start on network television, but unlike the Welk show, its network life was short. But the show has proved, as did Welk, that the networks don't have all the answers for gauging show popularity. Welk says he's got more stations in syndication than he did on the network.

"The shortest distance between two points is a straight line, and that's the way we've been on this show," host Buck Owens said during a break in taping at the WTVF studio in downtown Nashville.

"We've been straight — not too clever," he said. "The most important thing is the meld of music, comedy and different kinds of comedy. We took oil and water and mixed it and it stayed mixed."

"We are bein' and actin' like what people thought we were, instead of trying to be sophisticated and actin' like we weren't. We went the other way, like the Beverly Hillbillies. We depict ourselves. I don't say or do anything I normally wouldn't do. I can say 'ain't.'"

Sam Lovullo, the show's short, balding producer, agrees:

"We leave people as they are," said Lovullo, who would pass for Curly of the Three Stooges. "You almost see yourself at home as being that way."

"It's family oriented. We reach all classes, all ages and both men and women."

"Also, the country music plays a big part. Country music is story telling about things like love and divorce — things people identify with."

Those connected with the show predict continued success.

"We'll be on a long time," said

Louullo. "'Hee Haw' is the Grand Ole Opry of TV."

Owens says: "I wouldn't be surprised to see it go 15 years in production and another 15 years in reruns. It would be easy to alter the shows by using bits and pieces from one show and parts of another."

"Ten years from now, there still will be a lot of 'Hee Haw' new or old. It'll be like 'I Love Lucy.'"

Informality reigns on the set. There are no wardrobes or makeup rooms or stuffy executives barking orders.

"People just sit around and watch and laugh," Lovullo said.

Unlike the other manufacturers, who build cars of all sizes, AMC is exclusively a small car producer. Therefore, we have a lot at stake on the success of small cars.

Recently, the small car market has diminished substantially. Over the last five years, increased costs have forced prices up more than $1,000. As a result, American car buyers have pretty much stayed away, not only from AMC small cars, but from all small cars.

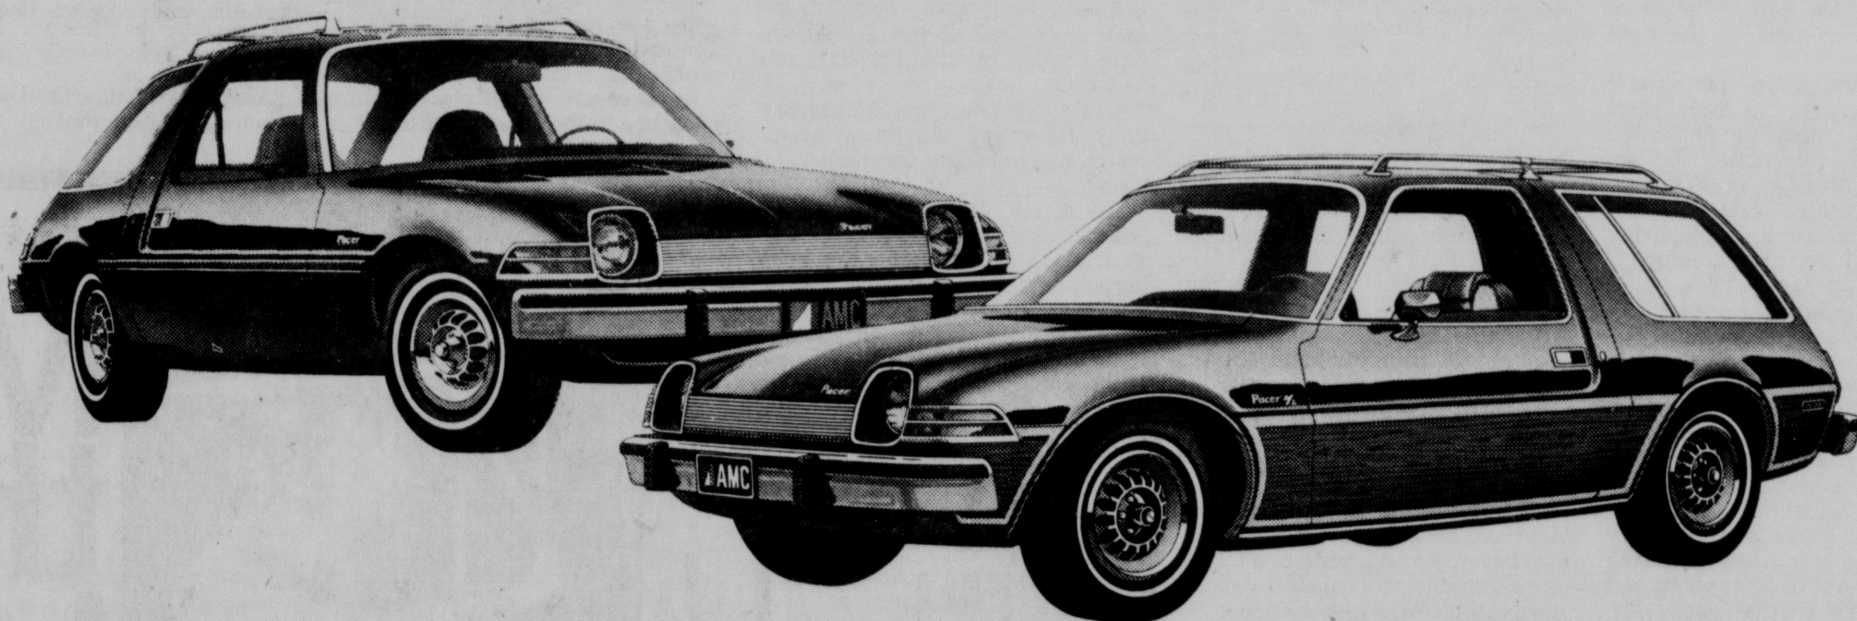

At American Motors, we're doing something about it. By attacking the problem in the most direct way we know how. By initiating pricing programs designed to save you a lot of money.

Our goal is to increase our sales volume by encouraging you, the car buyer, to return to the small car market. If we can get you to consider a small car, we're confident that the small car you buy will be an AMC.

1) $253 cash rebate on every new AMC Pacer and Pacer Wagon.

Right now, you get a $253 cash rebate when you buy any new 1976 or 1977 AMC Pacer. Make your best deal with your AMC Dealer and American Motors will send you a $253 cash rebate. Or, if you of community crime prevention by announcing the formation of Operation Crime Alert on January 13, 1976.

Crime alert, Rhodes said, was to be a multi-phased program relying on citizen involvement in the reduction of increasing crime rates across the state. Consisting of planning, promotional and granting phases, Crime Alert was envisioned as one of the first state programs to provide community coordination, financing and technical support in all areas of local operation.

Former Ohio Highway Patrol Superintendent Colonel Robert M. Chiaramonte was named on March 15 by Governor Rhodes to direct the program. Bringing with him over 30 years of law enforcement experience, Chiaramonte quickly launched the initial planning and development phase of the project.

Fully staffed and budgeted, the Crime Alert team has travelled extensively throughout the state, garnering input from all levels of community groups and law enforcement creating a snowball interest in the program.

Armed with nearly four million pieces of crime prevention literature, TV and radio public service announcements, preparations are underway to write and mail complete information packets and project guidelines to more than 1,500 law enforcement agencies, community and civic groups throughout Ohio.

A crime prevention film library is under development for use by civic or community groups and law enforcement agencies throughout Ohio. Conducted in cooperation with The State Library of Ohio, the categories will include both general crime prevention and crime specific presentations. As response warrants, the film library will be expanded to meet the demands for such services in specific subject areas.

An educational component is planned for officers in Ohio to receive the finest training available in crime prevention. Conducted by the National Crime Prevention Institute, the basic one week course will be held in Columbus and open to 50 officers each enrollment period.

No aggressive citizen's program, especially those initiated at the state level, can be effective without the cooperation and support of other groups.

Crime Alert has, during its development and initial stages of implementation, worked with a variety of groups from every segment of life in Ohio. They include The Buckeye State Sheriff's Association, The Ohio Chiefs of Police, The Ohio Farm Bureau, Ohio Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis, American Legion and many more.

Each has contributed valuable elements in making Crime Alert more responsive to the goal of involving every citizen in Ohio in the fight against crime.

Basic preventative philosophy dictates that there are three basic elements in the commission of a crime — criminal desire, victim and opportunity. The thrust of the community awareness phase of Crime Alert will be to recognize criminal opportunity and take steps to rectify its presence.

Programs currently under consideration to reduce the opportunity for crime include: Operation Identification, the engraving of valuables; a vigorous deadbolt lock program, to encourage the installation and use of good locks; and crime specific campaigns against shoplifting, burglary, larceny, rape, assault and, in general, all category one crimes.

An Operation Crime Alert Advisory Committee has been named, drawing on the expertise of both the public and private sectors of the state. The committee is comprised of representatives from public administration, law enforcement, the

Young Life Holds Banquet

YOUNG LIFE BANQUET — Present at the Young Life Autumn Banquet were, from the left, David Chilcoat, Young Life area director; Greg Brown, Circleville director of Young Life; and Dr. John Winkler, the evening speaker.

Over 90 people were on hand for the first Young Life Autumn Banquet held at the Pickaway Arms Restaurant.

David Chilcoat, the Young Life area director from Columbus, acted as emcee for the evening and explained the history and general workings of the Young Life program.

He introduced the Circleville Young Life staff to the guests who were present and commented that the contact work with the local high school students is being done by the local leaders.

The group was treated to special music by Jim Johnson, Sharie Johnson, and Les Zartman from Columbus. Their songs ranged from the humorous "Don't Honk If You Love Jesus" to the more serious "That's Why."

The evening message presented by Dr. John Winkler, Upper Arlington, whose family life was changed because his son became involved in the Young Life program.

Additional information on Circleville Young was presented by Greg Brown, the senior leader, and three Young Life members, Jack Hutchison, Marilyn List, and Randy Bryant.

The evening was ended with some closing remarks by Charles Hickey and requests for prayers and gifts to support the local Young Life effort.

A budget of $9,000 is anticipated for the year and pledges and one time gifts are the sole source of support for the Circleville operation.

Prison Van Overturns

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP) — Inmates being transported from a maximum security prison in Lucasville to a prison hospital in Columbus today produced pistols and attempted to escape from the van carrying them, corrections officials said. The attempt failed.

About four shots were fired by the inmates, from the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility. No one was struck by the shots, officials said.

Department spokesman Joseph A. Ashley said nine inmates were aboard the 10-passenger van when two .22-caliber pistols were produced and shots were fired at two guards who were riding in the drivers compartment.

Ashley said one of the bullets partially penetrated the heavy plastic screen separating the two sections of the van.

The driver, Dallas Estep, 49 of Wheelersburg, swung the van into a ditch along U.S. 23, where it overturned about five miles north of here, Ashley said.

Estep and Sgt. Sherman Baisden, 43, of Jackson, got out of the van and summoned help from Pike County sheriff's deputies. Officers surrounded the vehicle and ordered the inmates to toss out their weapons, Ashley said.

The inmates complied and surrendered, Ashley said.

capable. You have to look at the suggestions being made at that time to realize there was a real danger Congress would start to tinker with it."

Saxbe, 60, headed the Justice Department from January 1974, replacing Elliot Richardson, until he resigned in early 1975 after President Ford named him to be envoy to India.

Saxbe, one of the first ambassadors to resign following Jimmy Carter's presidential election victory, said that he had always intended to quit his diplomatic post by the end of this year, regardless of the election outcome.

Saxbe, who was first elected to the Ohio House of Representatives in 1946 and later served as state attorney general before his election to the Senate in 1968, said he has no plans to reenter politics.

Asked about reports that appear from time to time in Ohio newspapers speculating about the possibility he will run for governor in 1978, if incumbent James Rhodes, also a Republican, were not to seek re-election, Saxbe said: "I don't see any indication of Rhodes stepping aside."

Saxbe's immediate plans are to return to Mechanicsburg, his hometown, and resume an old law practice, manage his 200-head cattle farm and perhaps accept some company directorships.

He said he also might have an association with a law office in Washington, which would enable him to retain some ties there.

But he stresses that Washington is not his first love.

"I missed Ohio much more than I did Washington while in India," he said.

Saxbe describes his 21 months as a diplomat as "valuable and enjoyable experience."

"The thing I liked best was the ability to travel around the country and to meet the varied people of India," he said.

"Americans look upon Indians as a people who are starving, destitute, and unhappy and miserable. People who visit India and see the way Indians live think they are. But it's not true."

"One must understand that their way of living is much different from ours. They have a different climate, different sanitary and hygienic habits. Their cooking and eating habits are different. So is their culture, and we shouldn't hold them up and judge them in comparison to ourselves."

Indian Foreign Ministry officials credit Saxbe with having significantly contributed to an improvement in U.S.-Indian relations.

"He arrived at a most difficult time," said one official, recalling how Saxbe came in February 1975 when the relations were clouded by the U.S. decision to resume arms to neighboring Pakistan over India's strong protests.

"His not being a diplomat was a great advantage even to the diplomats," the official continued. "He was very candid and sincere, and even when you may not agree with him, when a person like Bill Saxbe talks to you on the basis of good will, then it makes things easier."

Saxbe said he is most pleased with a reduction in the criticism of America that he found in the Indian press when he arrived last year.

But he said he is still unhappy with the more favorable press treatment he feels is accorded the Soviet Union, a country that he says "exploits" India through trade agreements.

"We very seldom see anything good about the United States in their media and we never see anything critical about Russia," he said.

But he added, "We're generally pleased with our progress here in improving Indo-American relations and the progress that I think is yet to come. We've laid the groundwork for further improvement."

Saxbe said he and his wife, Dolly, also enjoyed the many non-diplomatic aspects of his assignment — golfing several times a week and taking frequent trips into the countryside for trout fishing and hunting.

Although Saxbe earned a reputation for public candor as a politician, he said he deliberately retained a low profile as ambassador — at least until his final week, when he spoke out during some farewell appearances and interviews.

"You have a responsibility to be outspoken when you are elected to a policy-making position such as a member of the Senate or appointed to a post like attorney general," he said. "You should let people know what you are thinking about, what you are recommending."

"But as a diplomat, especially in a country like India, I don't think you serve your country well if you are continually shooting off your mouth, and in the present situation I don't think it would have been productive."

Saxbe leaves Saturday and is due to reach Mechanicsburg on Dec. 4 following a brief stop in London and a voyage across the Atlantic on the Queen Elizabeth II. His resignation will become effective Jan. 9, Saxbe said.

His friends in Ohio and Washington will notice two physical changes.

In the words of the ambassador: "I've added a moustache and I lost about 10 pounds. Neither one was easy."

Conducted in cooperation with The State Library of Ohio, the categories will include both general crime prevention and crime specific presentations. As response warrants, the film library will be expanded to meet the demands for such services in specific subject areas.

An educational component is planned for officers in Ohio to receive the finest training available in crime prevention. Conducted by the National Crime Prevention Institute, the basic one week course will be held in Columbus and open to 50 officers each enrollment period.

No aggressive citizen's program, especially those initiated at the state level, can be effective without the cooperation and support of other groups.

Crime Alert has, during its development and initial stages of implementation, worked with a variety of groups from every segment of life in Ohio. They include The Buckeye State Sheriff's Association, The Ohio Chiefs of Police, The Ohio Farm Bureau, Ohio Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis, American Legion and many more.

Each has contributed valuable elements in making Crime Alert more responsive to the goal of involving every citizen in Ohio in the fight against crime.

Basic preventative philosophy dictates that there are three basic elements in the commission of a crime — criminal desire, victim and opportunity. The thrust of the community awareness phase of Crime Alert will be to recognize criminal opportunity and take steps to rectify its presence.

Programs currently under consideration to reduce the opportunity for crime include: Operation Identification, the engraving of valuables; a vigorous deadbolt lock program, to encourage the installation and use of good locks; and crime specific campaigns against shoplifting, burglary, larceny, rape, assault and, in general, all category one crimes.

An Operation Crime Alert Advisory Committee has been named, drawing on the expertise of both the public and private sectors of the state. The committee is comprised of representatives from public administration, law enforcement, the

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Looking back on his 30 years in public life, retiring Ambassador William B. Saxbe says he is particularly proud of his brief tour as U.S. attorney general during the height of the Watergate scandal that forced President Richard M. Nixon to resign.

"I think the transition period was one I could look upon with a great deal of pleasure," Saxbe said, his legs propped up on a table in his modern embassy office as he prepared to return to his native Ohio to resume private law practice.

"We re-established the Justice Department as responsible and capable. You have to look at the suggestions being made at that time to realize there was a real danger Congress would start to tinker with it."

Saxbe, 60, headed the Justice Department from January 1974, replacing Elliot Richardson, until he resigned in early 1975 after President Ford named him to be envoy to India.

Saxbe, one of the first ambassadors to resign following Jimmy Carter's presidential election victory, said that he had always intended to quit his diplomatic post by the end of this year, regardless of the election outcome.

Saxbe, who was first elected to the Ohio House of Representatives in 1946 and later served as state attorney general before his election to the Senate in 1968, said he has no plans to reenter politics.

Asked about reports that appear from time to time in Ohio newspapers speculating about the possibility he will run for governor in 1978, if incumbent James Rhodes, also a Republican, were not to seek re-election, Saxbe said: "I don't see any indication of Rhodes stepping aside."

Saxbe's immediate plans are to return to Mechanicsburg, his hometown, and resume an old law practice, manage his 200-head cattle farm and perhaps accept some company directorships.

He said he also might have an association with a law office in Washington, which would enable him to retain some ties there.

But he stresses that Washington is not his first love.

"I missed Ohio much more than I did Washington while in India," he said.

Saxbe describes his 21 months as a diplomat as "valuable and enjoyable experience."

"The thing I liked best was the ability to travel around the country and to meet the varied people of India," he said.

"Americans look upon Indians as a people who are starving, destitute, and unhappy and miserable. People who visit India and see the way Indians live think they are. But it's not true.

"One must understand that their way of living is much different from ours. They have a different climate, different sanitary and hygienic habits. Their cooking and eating habits are different. So is their culture, and we shouldn't hold them up and judge them in comparison to ourselves."

Indian Foreign Ministry officials credit Saxbe with having significantly contributed to an improvement in U.S.-Indian relations.

"He arrived at a most difficult time," said one official, recalling how Saxbe came in February 1975 when the relations were clouded by the U.S. decision to resume arms to neighboring Pakistan over India's strong protests.

"His not being a diplomat was a great advantage even to the diplomats," the official continued. "He was very candid and sincere, and even when you may not agree with him, when a person like Bill Saxbe talks to you on the basis of good will, then it makes things easier."

Saxbe said he is most pleased with a reduction in the criticism of America

Young Life Holds Banquet

YOUNG LIFE BANQUET — Present at the Young Life Autumn Banquet were, from the left, David Chilcoat, Young Life area director; Greg Brown, Circleville director of Young Life; and Dr. John Winkler, the evening speaker.

Over 90 people were on hand for the first Young Life Autumn Banquet held at the Pickaway Arms Restaurant.

David Chilcoat, the Young Life area director from Columbus, acted as emcee for the evening and explained the history and general workings of the Young Life program.

He introduced the Circleville Young Life staff to the guests who were present and commented that the contact work with the local high school students is being done by the local leaders.

The group was treated to special music by Jim Johnson, Sharie Johnson, and Les Zartman from Columbus. Their songs ranged from the humorous "Don't Honk If You Love Jesus" to the more serious "That's Why."

The evening message presented by Dr. John Winkler, Upper Arlington, whose family life was changed

because his son became involved in the Young Life program.

Additional information on Circleville Young was presented by Greg Brown, the senior leader, and three Young Life members, Jack Hutchison, Marilyn List, and Randy Bryant.

The evening was ended with some closing remarks by Charles Hickey and requests for prayers and gifts to support the local Young Life effort.

A budget of $9,000 is anticipated for the year and pledges and one time gifts are the sole source of support for the Circleville operation.

Prison Van Overturns

WAVERTLY, Ohio (AP) — Inmates being transported from a maximum security prison in Lucasville to a prison hospital in Columbus today produced pistols and attempted to escape from the van carrying them, corrections officials said. The attempt failed.

About four shots were fired by the inmates, from the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility. No one was struck by the shots, officials said.

Department spokesman Joseph A. Ashley said nine inmates were aboard the 10-passenger van when two .22-caliber pistols were produced and shots were fired at two guards who were riding in the drivers compartment.

Ashley said one of the bullets partially penetrated the heavy plastic screen separating the two sections of the van.

The driver, Dallas Estep, 49 of Wheelersburg, swung the van into a ditch along U.S. 23, where it overturned about five miles north of here, Ashley said.

Estep and Sgt. Sherman Baisden, 43, of Jackson, got out of the van and summoned help from Pike County sheriff's deputies. Officers surrounded the vehicle and ordered the inmates to toss out their weapons, Ashley said.

The inmates complied and surrendered, Ashley said.

In order to be effective, any program must have the full support of the police, the people, local and state government. Crime alert is an effort in which every Ohioan can participate through the institutions of our churches, homes and schools.

The fundamentals of crime prevention certainly do not start or stop with the points outlined here. However, these steps are the basic foundations of a program that offer the promise to meet the challenge of crime and its ultimate prevention head-on.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

It just doesn't seem possible that 10 weeks could go so fast — A short time ago, in our mind, they turned on the lights, teed the ball up on the grassy surface and a toe sent the oval shaped sphere flying through the air to begin the "smack and crack" season — Last Friday they turned off all the lights, put away the gear and it now becomes — Wait till next year!

Now it's the time for the roundball to start bouncing and it all begins tonight with the Mid State League and Scioto Valley Conference holding their cage previews.

All four county schools will swing into regular league play beginning next week and we will be off and running until next March.

The area schools are moving into mostly Tuesday and Friday play with limited Friday and Saturday action — They started this last year and liked it.

We must say that we are in agreement with this scheduling and feel that it is a benefit to all concerned. First — The coaches have a better chance to prepare their game plans with several days between games instead of the tough job of getting ready for Friday and Saturday night contests at the same time.

Second — We feel it helps the players as it is tough to play a hard, physical game on Friday and then bounce right back on Saturday night — They can use the couple of days in between for physical and mental rest.

Third — It is better for the fans who want to see the games but also have other things they would like to do on Saturday night — This way "they can have their cake and eat it too."

And last — but not least — It's a little easier on "beat-up old sportswriters" who also begin to "run out of gas" as the season moves along.

We like it and hope that they keep it!

Before we close this little dissertation, we would like to pass on a piece of information that you may or may not have heard — Circleville will play all of their home games at the Mill St. gym — There will not be any games at the high school gym this season.

Our "fearless" forecast — The local cage opener is a humdinger with Logan Elm at Teays Valley, we feel that the main difference could be the home court advantage for Teays Valley . . . We hope that the Mustangs will get off to a good start against Huntington . . . In the big one at OSU, Michigan should edge the Buckeyes in a close contest where anything can happen and usually does . . . The Yellow Jackets of Baldwin Wallace will sting the Wittenberg Tigers in the OAC championship tilt . . . The Browns will hold Tampa at Bay . . . Bengals will topple the teepee of KC.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

Grid Playoffs Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Don Bucci knows the experience of coaching an Ohio high school playoff championship football team, but he's making no predictions about a 1976 title for his Youngstown Mooney football team.

The awesome reason: Cincinnati Moeller, his Class AAA semifinal opponent in Dayton's Welcome Stadium tonight.

"They are what a coach dreams of," Bucci said of the 10-0-0 Crusaders, the defending playoff champions. "They have great running and their passing is superstrong. On defense, they fire people all over."

"They are the best team I've ever seen in the playoffs. We will have to play super defense and control the football against them."

Bucci's squad whipped Moeller 34-7 three years ago on the way to its lone playoff title.

In the other Class AAA semifinal

tonight, No. 3 Gahanna, 9-0-0, plays eighth-ranked Lakewood St. Edward, 9-1-0, the 1975 playoff title victim of Moeller, in the Akron Rubber Bowl.

In Class A semifinals tonight, third-ranked Newark Catholic, 9-1-0, makes its fourth straight appearance against No. 5 West Jefferson, 8-1-0, at Upper Arlington High School and No. 8 Fostoria St. Wendelin, 7-1-1, tangles with No. 10 Ashtabula St. John's, 5-3-1, at Lorain's Daniel Field.

The Class AA semifinalists wait until Saturday night with second-ranked Huron, 10-0-0, against ninth-rated Elyria Catholic, 8-1-0, at Baldwin-Wallace College while No. 1 New Lexington, 10-0-0, faces No. 3 Brookville, 10-0-0, in Welcome Stadium.

The championship schedule in the Rubber Bowl next weekend has the AAA finale at 7:30 p.m. Friday night, Nov. 26, the A winup at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 27, followed three hours later by the AA showdown.

Grid Playoffs Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Don Bucci knows the experience of coaching an Ohio high school playoff championship football team, but he's making no predictions about a 1976 title for his Youngstown Mooney football team.

The awesome reason: Cincinnati Moeller, his Class AAA semifinal opponent in Dayton's Welcome Stadium tonight.

"They are what a coach dreams of," Bucci said of the 10-0-0 Crusaders, the defending playoff champions. "They have great running and their passing is superstrong. On defense, they fire people all over."

"They are the best team I've ever seen in the playoffs. We will have to play super defense and control the football against them."

Bucci's squad whipped Moeller 34-7 three years ago on the way to its lone playoff title.

In the other Class AAA semifinal

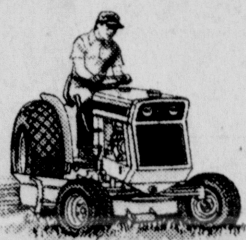

tonight, No. 3 Gahanna, 9-0-0, plays eighth-ranked Lakewood St. Edward, 9-1-0, the 1975 playoff title victim of Moeller, in the Akron Rubber Bowl.

In Class A semifinals tonight, third-ranked Newark Catholic, 9-1-0, makes its fourth straight appearance against No. 5 West Jefferson, 8-1-0, at Upper Arlington High School and No. 8 Postoria St. Wendelin, 7-1-1, tangles with No. 10 Ashtabula St. John's, 5-3-1, at Lorain's Daniel Field.

The Class AA semifinals wait until Saturday night with second-ranked Huron, 10-0-0, against ninth-ranked Elyria Catholic, 8-1-0, at Baldwin-Wallace College while No. 1 New Lexington, 10-0-0, faces No. 3 Brookville, 10-0-0, in Welcome Stadium.

The championship schedule in the Rubber Bowl next weekend has the AAA finale at 7:30 p.m. Friday night, Nov. 26, the A windup at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 27, followed three hours later by the AA showdown.

THE 1976-77 WESTFALL MUSTANGS

Braves Open Tuesday At TVHS

THE 1976-77 LOGAN ELM BRAVES

By CRAIG ALLISON
Herald Sports Writer

Chuck Cave, Randy Pontious, and Mark Skinner lead the 1976-77 Logan Elm Braves into the basketball wars as the only returning lettermen for first year head coach Butch Kobel. These three are seniors, and they are joined by three more men who will play their last season of roundball this year. Those men are Doug Woods, Mike Patrick, and Eric Maxson.

How has the pre-season progressed so far for Kobel? "I am very pleased with the way our practices have been going so far," he says, "our offense is coming along real well, but I'm still not satisfied with the way we've been running the defense."

The offense that Kobel spoke of is a passing offense much like Bobby Knight uses at Indiana, but in Kobel's words, "Ours has a little more order to it than that." The offense employs the use of a lot of different picks and screens, in an effort to work for the good open shot. The good feature of this type of offense is that it gives all the players an equal chance to score, and does not put all the offensive hopes on one player.

Spurs Blast Kings, 129-104

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Phil Johnson took his Kansas City Kings into San Antonio for a basketball game Thursday night and left there suffering from shell shock.

"We got bombed," said Johnson after the Spurs blasted Kansas City 129-104 for their sixth straight National Basketball Association victory.

"We couldn't hit a shot. They were going in and out time after time," he moaned after Billy Paultz scored 25 points and Larry Kenon 21, helping the Spurs hand the Kings their seventh loss in eight road games this season.

In other NBA games Thursday night, the Golden State Warriors crushed the Phoenix Suns 131-111 and the Indiana Pacers bested the Detroit Pistons 104-99.

The defense will be a man to man 90 per cent of the time, but the Braves will switch to some 2-3 and 1-2-2 zones, as well as the press on occasion. Coach Kobel admits that the man to man defense is a bit harder to play, but cites its advantages by stating, "the man to man defense allows us to put more pressure on the ball, and we can put better coverage on individual players. This might force more turnovers for us to take advantage of."

The Braves stayed with the Adena Warriors last Saturday in a 12 quarter scrimmage. The Warriors came out on top with a 129-120 score, but Kobel stated that he was pleased with the offensive showing that the Braves had. He felt that his charges gained a great deal of confidence from the encounter.

Tonight the Braves journey to Bloom-Carroll for the annual Mid-State League preview, where they take on Fairfield Union in a 7:15 p.m. match up. Next Tuesday night it all begins, as the Braves will travel to Teays Valley High School to open the Pickaway County season with Bob Hoover's Vikings.

Mustangs Start Wednesday

By CRAIG ALLISON
Herald Sports Writer

Spirits are high at Westfall High School as head Coach Mike Eckle guides his basketball charges into next Wednesday night's opener against the Huntington Huntsmen at the Mustang gym.

Spirits run high because Eckle thinks his team has been working extra hard for the opener. "We've had a few problems, but we have constantly shown improvement, and our kids have given us every effort in our preparations," says the Mustang's mentor. "We are doing some rebuilding as far as experience is concerned, but we have a great bunch of kids, and we'll be giving it everything in the game situations."

The Mustangs are a bit shallow in the experience department, as they bring back lone letterman John Long from last season, but as anyone who followed Mustang football knows, Long is still recuperating from knee surgery early in football season and will be on the cage floor sometime around Christmas if he returns on schedule. "John will give you 100 per cent or better, and we are anxious to get him back," says Eckle.

Other seniors include Larry Bilek in the pivot, and according to Eckle he can move well with the ball. Neil Keller and Eric Schleich are listed as good rebounders and shooters, and senior Dave Clem has what all coaches like to see in a player, according to Eckle. "Clem has average ability with above average desire and hustle, which really makes a lot of difference," states Eckle.

Three sophomores found berths on the varsity squad this season, and Eckle said, "Our sophomores played like varsity players in practice, and they worked hard in the off season, and we put them there because we thought they were varsity material." As for his juniors, the head coach stated that these players have never enjoyed a winning season, but "it isn't because of their attitude. These kids work as hard as anybody, but they've just dropped some close ball games." Our juniors will help us considerably this year," says Eckle.

The Mustang coaching staff will use the players in running a motion offense where they will work for the open shot. With the graduation of last year's bigger squad, Eckle says that the 1976-77 Mustangs will have to use a little more finesse instead of the power plays of last season.

Mustang roundball fans will see a man to man nearly all the time. When not in that, the Mustangs will use the zone and the press.

Says Eckle, "We are starting a good program. Its just up to our kids to see how much they want to work. To be good in anything you have to work and practice, whether it is band, studies, work, or basketball."

Tonight at Southeastern High School the Mustangs will go against Southeastern in the annual Scioto Valley Conference preview. The game will start at 9 p.m.

Football Seniors Review Their Final Season

By DEBIE GENTZEL
And PAMPONTIUS

"We were disappointed that we didn't have a better record, but with all the injuries we had we played well," Coach Cook commented.

Major setbacks of the season were the injuries and critical turnovers of the football at critical times, such as in the Washington C.H. game.

Also included is the factor that "we played the toughest schedule ever in the history of C.H.S. football."

Factors in our favor for the season were that the squad was competitive and put forth a lot of effort and "we always have a winning tradition at C.H.S.," stated Coach Cook.

Through the three years of high school the departing seniors leave with a fine record of 22 wins and 8 losses.

"They have been a good group of men to work with and they have had good effort," concluded Coach Cook.

Departing senior captains commented: Frank Merrill - "We didn't do as well as we should have but I'm still happy because we had a good time and football was a memorable experience."

Tom McGuire - "I had fun. The season wasn't as good as I wanted it to be. Sometimes you get the elevator, sometimes you get the shaft - this year was our down year."

Bill Mogan - "I think it could have been better. I learned a lot about myself."

Bryan Price - "We didn't have a great season but the team learned a lot about winning and losing that will help in years to come."

Art Davis - "Wish we could have had a better season. Things didn't turn our way and we didn't get all the breaks. We tried to pull the team together."

Other seniors are Brett Allen, Brad Allison, Bo Barthelmas, Brian Fath, Randy Happeney, John Hoffman, Tim Milstead and Chuck Wellman.

Basketball Team Described As 'Experienced'

By DEBIE GENTZEL
And PAMPONTIUS

"We'll play exceptionally hard" were the words used by Coach James Bailey to describe the future of this year's basketball team.

"We're an experienced team and will improve over the season", Coach Bailey said.

Returning for the 1977 basketball team are three returning lettermen, Frank Merrill, Rusty Holbrook and Tom Taylor along with returning player Eric Pontious.

Coach Bailey feels that the most challenging league teams to be played will be Miami Trace, Wilmington and Hillsboro.

"Bexley will be a challenging non-league team and it's always a challenge to play county teams," stated Coach Bailey.

The overall size of the team this year is small compared to most but Coach Bailey feels it's big enough to win. A new addition to the team is senior Brent Wright, 6 foot 4½, and will add height to the team. He is viewed as having "good height and speed."

Coach Bailey sees the overall improvement and learning to play together as key factors to a victorious season.

Notes From Pickaway-Ross

By BECKY WOLFORD

Pickaway - Ross Joint Vocational Center held its third annual open house from 1-4 p.m. Sunday.

Approximately 2,240 parents and students walked through the school, touring the Center's facilities.

Students from the different programs made posters and set up displays for the public to see.

Also, in the Common's Area, located near the cafeteria, the various clubs from the school set up booths to show the public what events, characteristics, and qualities make up each organization.

Any Circleville student wanting to purchase a memory book from Pickaway-Ross JVC should see a member of the Executive Committee at the school.

Guidance Guidelines

Representatives from Wittenberg will be here on Monday and from Franklin University on Tuesday. Interested parents and students are invited to attend these sessions.

The recognition of the importance of women in various career areas can be seen further by examining the Labor Departments "Dictionary of Occupational Titles." Of the 35,000 job titles in the book, more than 3,500 are revised. Here are some examples of the changes: Animal Husbandry to Animal Science, Bridal Consultant to Wedding Consultant, Draftsman to Drafter, Fisherman to Fisher, Governess to Child Mentor, Meter Maid to Meter Attendant, Headmaster to Private School Principal, Seamstress to Custom Sewer.

Applications for Ohio State University are available in the Guidance Office.

Financial assistance from the parents and student should be estimated two or three years in advance of college entrance. It should be recognized that costs usually rise each year. Parents must determine in a realistic fashion the amount they will be able to pay on a monthly basis. In estimating this figure, one should realize that colleges expect the parents to pay their "fair share" as determined from income and assets.

Applications are now being taken for Franklin University's 1977-78 Academic and Leadership Scholar Program. If interested, check in the Guidance Office or call Franklin University (614-224-6237).

The US Department of Labor has published information about "tomorrow's jobs" which includes these predictions. About 80 per cent of the 58 million job openings expected through 1985 will be in jobs not requiring a four-year college degree. Therefore, post-high school training through apprenticeships, proprietary schools, and technical institute programs will be of increasing importance as educational requirements in many clerical, sales, service, and craft occupations continue to rise.

Bowen Eyes Race Against Birch Bayh

INDIANAPOLIS — Gov. Otis R. Bowen said here Wednesday he might accept a Republican draft to run against Democratic Sen. Birch Bayh in 1980.

In an exclusive interview with the Associated Press, Bowen said: "I'm going to keep my options open. A lot depends on the situation and the needs."

"It would be pretty tough to turn down any urgent requests," Bowen said. "But at the same time I don't feel that I'm indispensable."

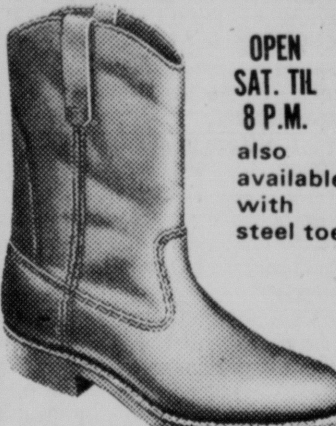

Bowen, the first candidate to win two consecutive four-year terms as governor, is ineligible for a third term and has been mentioned as a possible GOP challenger to Bayh.

GOP State chairman Thomas S. Milligan told a news conference Wednesday Bowen might be the party's choice for the 1980 Senate race.

Football Seniors Review Their Final Season

By DEBI GENTZEL
And PAM PONTIUS

"We were disappointed that we didn't have a better record, but with all the injuries we had we played well," Coach Cook commented.

Major setbacks of the season were the injuries and critical turnovers of the football at critical times, such as in the Washington C.H. game.

Also included is the factor that "we played the toughest schedule ever in the history of C.H.S. football."

Factors in our favor for the season were that the squad was competitive and put forth a lot of effort and "we always have a winning tradition at C.H.S.," stated Coach Cook.

Through the three years of high school the departing seniors leave with a fine record of 22 wins and 8 losses. "They have been a good group of men to work with and they have had good effort," concluded Coach Cook. Departing senior captains commented: Frank Merrill - "We didn't do as well as we should have but I'm still happy because we had a good time and football was a memorable experience."

Tom McGuire - "I had fun. The season wasn't as good as I wanted it to be. Sometimes you get the elevator, sometimes you get the shaft - this year was our down year."

Bill Mogan - "I think it could have been better. I learned a lot about myself."

Bryan Price - "We didn't have a great season but the team learned a lot about winning and losing that will help in years to come."

Art Davis - "Wish we could have had a better season. Things didn't turn our way and we didn't get all the breaks. We tried to pull the team together."

Other seniors are Brett Allen, Brad Allison, Bo Barthelmas, Brian Fath, Randy Happeney, John Hoffman, Tim Minstead and Chuck Wellman.

Veterans Questions Answered

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers of interest to veterans. These questions and answers are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information concerning his Veterans Administration benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer, at 219 South Court Street.

(Q.) Exactly what is the difference between Pension and Compensation? I always thought both meant the same thing.

(A.) Compensation is a benefit paid by the Veterans Administration for a disability which occurred in Service, or in other words for a Service Connected Disability. Pension is a benefit paid by the VA for a disability which is not the result of service. To receive a Pension, a veteran must be Totally and Permanently disabled, or is over 65 years of age. Compensation is paid in degrees of from 10 to 100 per cent. Pension is based on your income.

(Q.) When should a claim for Compensation be filed?

(A.) It is very important that you establish without delay any disabilities you believe were incurred in or aggravated by your period of military service. To delay could result in a loss of valuable benefits, including out-patient treatment or priority for securing VA hospital care. Filing a claim early may also entitle you to other benefits, such as vocational rehabilitation, preference in obtaining Government employment and eligibility for a special type of insurance for disabled veterans only. For these reasons, filing of the claim should not be delayed.

(Q.) I believe the disability I now have is service connected, but I was not treated in the Service for this disability. Can I file a claim for Service Connected Disability, or is it impossible?

(A.) Although it is possible, it is difficult.

(Q.) I am 61 years of age, and recently broke my arm. I am disabled because of this arm, and can not work. Would this make me eligible for a VA Pension?

(A.) A Veteran must be totally and permanently disabled. Disabilities must be permanent in nature that must be expected to continue for the balance of the veteran's lifetime. The "total" requirement is generally met when the combination of disabilities make it impossible for the veteran to follow gainful employment.

(Q.) After a pension is lost can it be reinstated?

(A.) Yes. If part of a veteran's income is lost or terminated and he can meet the standards set forth by the Veterans Administration he can have his pension reinstated.

Ransom Demand Met For Film

ERLANGER, Ky. (AP) — It was not your usual ransom demand.

Thieves who stole four reels of film from an Erlanger theater Wednesday returned the cannisters 24 hours later after their request was met.

They were paid $100 in reward money being offered by a Cincinnati radio station—plus three free passes to the movie and a handful of record albums.

The reels, valued at $1,000, were stolen from the theater lobby, two days before the movie "Led Zeppelin—The Song Remains the Same"—was scheduled to open.

Equal Yield Formula Faces Threat

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School closings and continued dissatisfaction with property tax burdens pose a threat to Ohio's equal yield school subsidy formula in its second year of operation.

As many as eight districts face shutdowns for varying periods of time before the start of holiday vacations next month—some have already closed. Most of the districts could have stayed open had voters approved tax levies on Nov. 2.

Without local property tax effort, the equal yield formula for funneling state dollars into public schools simply does not work. Even supporters of the equalization plan admit that.

"I was a reluctant supporter of equal yield due to the inevitable problems of partial funding," said State School Supt. Martin W. Essex. "Now that Ohio is committed to this concept, we should get on with it."

The concept was designed to offset wide disparities in property values among the state's 617 school districts, by passing state support on local tax effort, rather than wealth.

Man Fights Blindness

STREETSBORO, Ohio (AP) — Streetsboro councilman Roger Prof has been losing his sight since the summer of 1973, but while darkness gathers around him, the light of hope grows within.

Prof, 40, has not let the coming of blindness prevent him from doing his job nor has he let it cause him to give up his faith.

"I miss looking at flowers and watching ants parade to an ant hill. I'd like to have my eyes back," he says. "I still have great hope in doctors and in God."

The councilman is a retired Ford Motor Co. employee who now spends a good part of his day on civic affairs. He relies heavily on the telephone to contact constituents. He says the telephone company doesn't charge him for getting phone numbers through information. At home, his family reads to him.

He is seldom absent from council meetings or city functions. "At first my blindness depressed me. But in the past, I've seen others with greater problems than I have. I can still do a lot I didn't think I would be able to. And I can still walk without a cane."

Prof, who has had diabetes since he was 17, receives laser treatments for hemorrhaging behind his retina. He has general vision and that's all. Sometimes he is able to read through a magnifying glass, but usually his family reads to him.

Tests Confirm Assassin Theory

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Columbia University medical school official says his own independent tests confirm the Warren Commission's finding that President John F. Kennedy was shot from the back and not the front, a key point in determining whether there was more than one assassin.

The Warren Commission said the bullet was fired by Lee Harvey Oswald, who it said acted alone in the killing.

Dr. John K. Lattimer, chairman of the Urology Department at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons, showed films of experiments he conducted by firing a rifle identical to the one used by Oswald into the back of an animal skull. Each time the shot produced the same backward motion seen in a film of the Kennedy assassination.

At one time women were not allowed inside a mushroom-growing house, according to National Geographic, because their presence was believed to endanger the crop.

The formula is funded at 26 per cent this year with a goal of full funding set for the 1978-79 school year.

Essex, the "reluctant supporter," sees the need for some modifications in the plan. One involves recognition of personal income among taxpayers in a district as a factor in state funding.

"Until the personal income in the community is included as part of that charge-off factor," he said referring to the formula's tie-in with local property valuations, "I see the courts declaring as unconstitutional any system which relies on a single factor to determine the ability of a community to support its schools."

At a meeting of the Ohio Public Expenditures Council, Essex also floated a new tax proposal that would deprive localities of control over some utility property taxes.

"A potential reform that warrants careful consideration is a statewide collection and distribution of the taxes on utility generating plants," he said. "These multi-million dollar facilities tend to be located in very small school districts. The services are used by others throughout the state." The added state revenue would presumably be pumped back into schools.

Essex isn't the only school official with controversial ideas.

Frank Dick, superintendent of the Toledo School District, wants local districts to have the authority to choose whether they want state aid based on property taxes or income taxes. He has already drawn support from Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, a lawmaker who rarely shies from controversy.

The Toledo district, slated to close to 55,600 pupils on Dec. 3, has defeated three consecutive property tax levies.

Veterans Questions Answered

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers of interest to veterans. These questions and answers are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information concerning his Veterans Administration benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer, at 219 South Court Street.

(Q.) Exactly what is the difference between Pension and Compensation? I always thought both meant the same thing.

(A.) Compensation is a benefit paid by the Veterans Administration for a disability which occurred in Service, or in other words for a Service Connected Disability. Pension is a benefit paid by the VA for a disability which is not the result of service. To receive a Pension, a veteran must be Totally and Permanently disabled, or is over 65 years of age. Compensation is paid in degrees of from 10 to 100 per cent. Pension is based on your income.

(Q.) When should a claim for Compensation be filed?

(A.) It is very important that you establish without delay any disabilities you believe were incurred in or aggravated by your period of military service. To delay could result in a loss of valuable benefits, including outpatient treatment or priority for securing VA hospital care. Filing a claim early may also entitle you to other benefits, such as vocational rehabilitation, preference in obtaining Government employment and eligibility for a special type of insurance for disabled veterans only. For these reasons, filing of the claim should not be delayed.

(Q.) I believe the disability I now have is service connected, but I was not treated in the Service for this disability. Can I file a claim for Service Connected Disability, or is it impossible?

(A.) Although it is possible, it is difficult.

(Q.) I am 61 years of age, and recently broke my arm. I am disabled because of this arm, and can not work. Would this make me eligible for a VA Pension?

(A.) A Veteran must be totally and permanently disabled. Disabilities must be permanent in nature that must be expected to continue for the balance of the veteran's lifetime. The "total" requirement is generally met when the combination of disabilities make it impossible for the veteran to follow gainful employment.

(Q.) After a pension is lost can it be reinstated?

(A.) Yes. If part of a veteran's income is lost or terminated and he can meet the standards set forth by the Veterans Administration he can have his pension reinstated.

Ransom Demand Met For Film

ERLANGER, Ky. (AP) — It was not your usual ransom demand.

Thieves who stole four reels of film from an Erlanger theater Wednesday returned the cannisters 24 hours later after their request was met.

They were paid $100 in reward money being offered by a Cincinnati radio station—plus three free passes to the movie and a handful of record albums.

The reels, valued at $1,000, were stolen from the theater lobby, two days before the movie "Led Zeppelin—The Song Remains the Same"—was scheduled to open.

Equal Yield Formula Faces Threat

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School closings and continued dissatisfaction with property tax burdens pose a threat to Ohio's equal yield school subsidy formula in its second year of operation.

As many as eight districts face shutdowns for varying periods of time before the start of holiday vacations next month—some have already closed. Most of the districts could have stayed open had voters approved tax levies on Nov. 2.

Without local property tax effort, the equal yield formula for funneling state dollars into public schools simply does not work. Even supporters of the equalization plan admit that.

"I was a reluctant supporter of equal yield due to the inevitable problems of partial funding," said State School Supt. Martin W. Essex. "Now that Ohio is committed to this concept, we should go on with it."

The concept was designed to offset wide disparities in property values among the state's 617 school districts, by passing state support on local tax effort, rather than wealth.

Man Fights Blindness

STREETSBORO, Ohio (AP) — Streetsboro councilman Roger Prof has been losing his sight since the summer of 1973, but while darkness gathers around him, the light of hope grows within.

Prof, 40, has not let the coming of blindness prevent him from doing his job nor has he let it cause him to give up his faith.

"I miss looking at flowers and watching ants parade to an ant hill. I'd like to have my eyes back," he says. "I still have great hope in doctors and in God."

The councilman is a retired Ford Motor Co. employee who now spends a good part of his day on civic affairs. He relies heavily on the telephone to contact constituents. He says the telephone company doesn't charge him for getting phone numbers through information. At home, his family reads to him.

He is seldom absent from council meetings or city functions. "At first my blindness depressed me. But in the past, I've seen others with greater problems than I have. I can still do a lot I didn't think I would be able to. And I can still walk without a cane."

Prof, who has had diabetes since he was 17, receives laser treatments for hemorrhaging behind his retina. He has general vision and that's all. Sometimes he is able to read through a magnifying glass, but usually his family reads to him.

Tests Confirm Assassin Theory

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Columbia University medical school official says his own independent tests confirm the Warren Commission's finding that President John F. Kennedy was shot from the back and not the front, a key point in determining whether there was more than one assassin.

The Warren Commission said the bullet was fired by Lee Harvey Oswald, who it said acted alone in the killing.

Dr. John K. Lattimer, chairman of the Urology Department at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons, showed films of experiments he conducted by firing a rifle identical to the one used by Oswald into the back of an animal skull. Each time the shot produced the same backward motion seen in a film of the Kennedy assassination.

At one time women were not allowed inside a mushroom-growing house, according to National Geographic, because their presence was believed to endanger the crop.

The formula is funded at 26 per cent this year with a goal of full funding set for the 1978-79 school year.

Essex, the "reluctant supporter," sees the need for some modifications in the plan. One involves recognition of personal income among taxpayers in a district as a factor in state funding.

"Until the personal income in the community is included as part of that charge-off factor," he said referring to the formula's tie-in with local property valuations, "I see the courts declaring as unconstitutional any system which relies on a single factor to determine the ability of a community to support its schools."

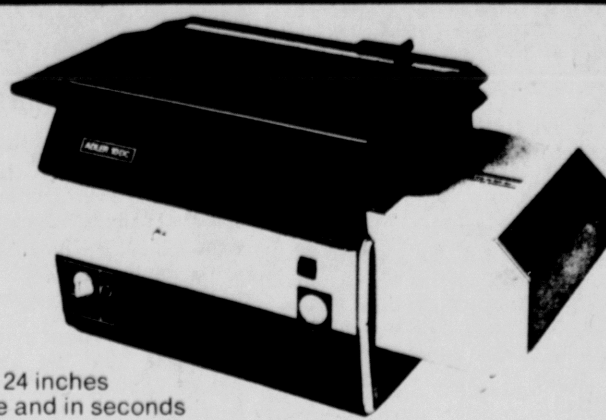

At a meeting of the Ohio Public Expenditures Council, Essex also floated a new tax proposal that would deprive localities of control over some utility property taxes.

"A potential reform that warrants

careful consideration is a statewide collection and distribution of the taxes on utility generating plants," he said. "These multi-million dollar facilities tend to be located in very small school districts. The services are used by others throughout the state." The added state revenue would presumably be pumped back into schools.

Essex isn't the only school official with controversial ideas. Frank Dick, superintendent of the Toledo School District, wants local districts to have the authority to choose whether they want state aid based on property taxes or income taxes. He has already drawn support from Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, a lawmaker who rarely shies from controversy.

The Toledo district, slated to close to 55,600 pupils on Dec. 3, has defeated three consecutive property tax levies.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Your thoughts finally "jell" on a project you've been contemplating. You "put it all together," as they say, and results will prove it.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Consult with others before making important decisions. Your endurance may be tested, but you are used to tests - and usually pass them with flying colors.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Let certain situations ride now. Forcing issues will do more harm than good. By demonstration, you can let others know that your ideas are practical.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Mixed influences. Avoid overoptimism. Too rosy an outlook could cause you to overlook small but vital details. The p.m. brings an interesting bit of news.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Everyone has to take chances at some time or other, but this is no day for YOU to take unnecessary risks. Day calls for cautious, conservative action.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Don't change plans or methods without consulting all concerned. Study where changes ARE needed and to what degree. Press for efficiency.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Some surprising events indicated - perhaps a completely unexpected visit from an old friend or relative from afar.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): A day in which to keep your own counsel. Otherwise, it would be only too easy to involve yourself in discussions or other communications which get you nowhere.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): A short trip may bring some surprising results - even, possibly, a complete change in your present set-up.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): The success of an old friend will certainly call for a celebration. Do YOUR part to make it a truly convivial one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Stars now put the accent on romance. You should hear, directly or indirectly, some highly interesting news about an old flame.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): If planning a trip, be sure that you don't go overboard financially. Get all schedules, costs, etc. in writing. Better plan on some "extras," too.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with both mental alertness and manual dexterity. You have a flair for gracious living and have real know-how when it comes to dealing with people, separately or collectively.

You are often called "lucky," but your luck results from your keen observations, the ability to separate the wheat from the chaff, and an instinct for grasping advantages at just the right time. You are extremely versatile, and many fields are open to your talents; most notably, however, the worlds of law and statesmanship, business organization, science, music, literature and the theater. Try to curb tendency to go to extremes.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A recent advertisement shows the faces of Harry Reasoner and Barbara Walters, coanchors of the ABC Evening News. The ad says: "On the network more people are watching."

But don't get the impression more people are watching the Harry and Barbara show than the CBS Evening News or the NBC Nightly News. They aren't.

The new ABC effort, launched Oct. 4 after constant publicity about Miss Walters and her $1 million-a-year salary, still is third in the ratings, even though ABC says it detects a definite ratings improvement.

Over a six-week period — the latest Nielsens available are for the week ending Nov. 12 — the Reasoner-Walters show has been seen in just over 7.5 million homes each weeknight, on the average.

In contrast, the Nielsen figures say the six-week average for CBS' news show is more than 10.8 million homes each weeknight, with a nightly average of nearly 9.9 million homes watching NBC's news.

Still, says William Lord, an ABC News vice president, the Reasoner-Walters show is getting, on the average, nearly a full ratings point more than in the days without her. A Nielsen spokesman agreed.

ABC's Evening News actually had shown a ratings decline before she joined it, Lord said, but now "what in effect has happened is that the decline has been reversed and it's beginning to grow again."

Did ABC think the new show would do better in the ratings — TV's equivalent of newspaper circulation — than it actually is doing?

"Well, we set no real goals in terms of that," Lord said in a phone interview from New York. "We looked at where we were and realized we could go no place but up at this time."

He described the ratings increase for the show as moderate and said ABC considers it "the beginning of continued growth."

But he emphasized that the key to that growth — in terms of national ratings — is how large an audience ABC affiliates can get for their local news shows when such precede the ABC Evening News.

By this he meant the audience "lead-in — local news programs provide network newscasts.

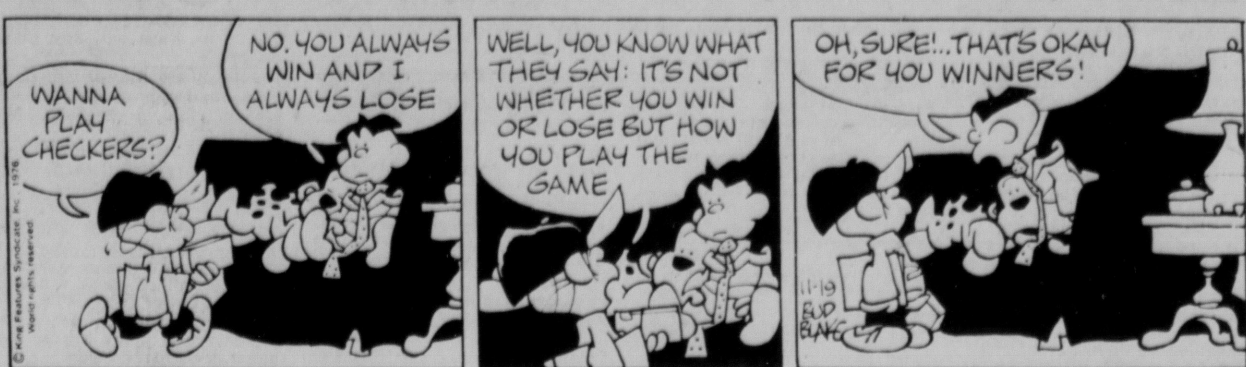

"The strength of the local affiliate is terribly important to our own success," he said. When starting the new show, ABC noted that building an audience for it would take time. It said it would wait until the end of 1976 before judging if the show was doing what ABC hoped it would do in the ratings.

Lord said the watch-and-wait policy still is in effect, and added, "Let's face it, if the ratings went down precipitously, of course we'd have to make a terrible reassessment."

"But that (ratings drop) isn't happening ... so I don't think we have a problem as to where we are now with the growth pattern. I think it looks very good."

In the whole world it is estimated there are at least 40,000 thunder and lightning storms a day.

Gullett With Yanks; Becomes 'Unperson'

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson closed the book on Don Gullett Thursday, with anguish and disillusionment.

"The name will be dropped. I will never bring his name up again," said Anderson.

"Cincinnati is going to carry on," said Anderson, admitting he was "a little shocked" after learning that the Reds' ace lefthander had jumped to the New York Yankees for a six-year contract worth an estimated $2 million.

The loss clearly cut Anderson deeply. Despite indications that Gullett and his attorney Jerry Kapstein were cool to last-minute overtures from the Reds front office, Anderson was optimistic to the end that the differences might be settled.

"I've always been very strong on loyalty and I always felt there is a lot more to life than money," said Anderson.

Gullett, 25, was nearing greatness after six years with the Reds, who made him their No. 1 draft choice in 1969. He joins the team the Reds humiliated during a four-game sweep last month that produced a second straight World Series title.

Reds outfielder Ken Griffey said the loss doesn't dash the Reds chances for a third world championship in a row.

Nor does he consider Gullett a traitor.

"I don't have any hard feelings," said Griffey. "In fact I'm happy for him. There's nothing wrong with a guy getting security. But I think we can win it without him."

Griffey doesn't feel the addition of Gullett swings the pendulum in the Yankees favor as baseball's next super team.

"As far as I'm concerned, the best team did not win the American League last year. They might be buying the best talent, but they still have to put it all together on the field. Nobody can say we bought two straight world championships."

Rookie righthander Pat Zachry, who stepped into the breach and won 14 games when Gullett spent most of the season disabled, said the development "puts a damper" on Cincinnati's depth-thin pitching staff. "We just got by without him."

Zachry said the lucrative package emphasizes the fact that baseball "is a business and we are valuable commodities."

Anderson, speaking from a phone booth at Los Angeles International Airport, said he holds no animosity toward the 25-year-old lefthander. Gullett was the only member of the world champions to play out his option.

"The only thing that I hope is someday Don will be able to look back and say he made the right decision."

Anderson said he is confident the Reds' front office "will look over everything and come up with something. Some way, we'll replace him." He said the Cincinnati farm system lacks a top lefthander with the seasoning to immediately fill the void left by Gullett.

The loss of Gullett likely means the Reds will swing an off-season trade to replace the fireballing lefthander.

Bengals Must Keep Steamroller Going

CINCINNATI (AP) — Coach Bill Johnson said the Cincinnati Bengals can't afford any more sputtering first half efforts in their upcoming four-week stretch drive.

The Bengals, 8-2, have needed come-from-behind explosions two straight weeks to overcome deficits against the Los Angeles Rams and the Houston Oilers.

"Sure I'm concerned," said Johnson as the Bengals geared for the Sunday's National Football League meeting with the Kansas City Chiefs. "You only get so many opportunities. It's hard to get those chances back."

Cincinnati has managed only three points in its last two first halves. They spotted the Rams a 6-0 advantage to rally for a 20-12 victory, then wiped out a 13-3 Houston lead with a 28-point second half outburst.

He said there is no mystery to the slow starts.

"The teams we were playing had plenty to do with it. They're defenses are not exactly like running against a bunch of paper sacks," he said.

"You can search for a lot of reasons for our problem, but basically it comes down to execution—or lack of it," he said.

Center Bob Johnson has his own theory for the sluggishness.

"I thought we were too tight against the Rams. We were stopped by dropped passes and penalties. That would indicate nervousness to me. That game meant a lot to us," he said.

"Then against Houston, we were flat. And I'm not sure why," he said.

Johnson drilled long and loud this week on execution and the Chiefs may feel the result.

"Right from the word go, we've got to execute. One of these days it's going to catch up to us," said Johnson.

Kansas City has allowed more points than any NFL team, yielding almost 30 points per game. The Chiefs' passing attack, top-ranked in the league with an average of 230 yards per game, faces a test from Cincinnati's stingy secondary, which was the AFC's toughest a year ago.

On Books And Activities At The Library

If you live in a rural area, you will be receiving the 1976-77 Mail-A-Book catalog in your mailbox in the next few days. The catalog will contain new titles available to Mail-A-Book readers. Be sure to watch for the catalog and more details about the program soon.

After you've stuffed yourself with turkey and all the trimmings, there's nothing like a good book to take your mind off the calories you shouldn't have eaten! We have some interesting titles just in time for holiday relaxing.

If you've been following the life of Mary Ann in Catherine Cookson's delightful series, don't miss "Love And Mary Ann." Coming to grips with adult problems for the first time, 13 year old Mary Ann is as natural, irrepressible and lovable as ever.

John Masters is in top form in his new novel of romance, suspense and intrigue. "The Himalayan Concerto" is the story of a young musician who gets himself involved in espionage. The cat-and-mouse game being played out by India, Russia and China make an exciting yarn.

"Two Doctors And A Girl" proves again that Elizabeth Seifert can write an absorbing novel of people in a crisis and sets events against a background of a doctor's world.

"No Holly For Miss Quinn" by Miss Read is a Christmas novel. It's the heart-warming story of how the holiday excitement of a family changed the life of an unsentimental, efficient secretary.

John Kelly is well-qualified to write about a WWII pilot. The former Navy fighter-pilot has written an exciting story of the RAF attempt to bomb Hitler's private train. The technically factual account is titled "Wooden Wolf."

Miss Pink is back again solving a crime. "Over The Sea To Death" by Gwen Moffat calls upon the talents of Miss Pink to solve the murder of a young, lovely and promiscuous girl.

The Shah of Iran, oil profits, and nuclear power are not necessarily subjects in the realm of fiction. Paul Erdman, however, has written a rather disturbing novel around those three ingredients. "The Crash Of '79" shows how easily fiction could become fact.

It's love... love... love! "Dear Intruder" by Ilka Chase is one big series of love affairs from grandma to granddaughter. It's all done in good fun, however!

Non-fiction readers have some excellent choices this week too. Maya Angelou has completed the third volume of her autobiography. "Singin'

And Swingin' And Gettin' Merry Like Christmas" takes her into the adult world of show business, marriage, and the problems of rearing a son. It's a story charged with a remarkable sense of love and life.

"Afternoons In Mid-America" by Erskine Caldwell is the record of the author's journey from Arkansas to Missouri. It provides an interesting portrait of Middle America.

Mary Welsh Hemingway gives us a picture of the famous Ernest and her life as his last wife. "How It Was" is the story of two extraordinary people and their love.

Truth is often more exciting than fiction. "Blood And Money" by Thomas Thompson is the true story of greed, violence, abuse of power and vengeance. Set in modern Texas, it's a murder tale as exciting as any novel.

A travel book that doesn't read like a travel book, "Better Than Oceans" by Emily Kimbrough recalls two inland waterway adventures. It's written with a rich enjoyment of people and places.

"Gods Of Aquarius" by Brad Steiger is another book for UFO devotees. Mr. Steiger has been a student of UFOs for over 20 years. His new book expresses the theory that an external intelligence has been attempting to interact and communicate with man.

Two new "how-to" books are worlds apart in subject matter but should appeal to a large number of readers: "The Complete Book Of Square Dancing (and Round Dancing)" by Betty Casey has good step-by-step illustrations. "How To Shoot" by Larry Koller is a complete guide to the use of sporting firearms.

The staff of the Pickaway County Public Library wishes everyone a happy Thanksgiving. Remember, the library will close at noon on Wednesday, Nov. 24 and remain closed through Thursday, Nov. 25. Business as usual on Friday!

Thieves Take Two Weapons

Thieves made off with about $650 in weapons and silver after breaking into the 10353 Gulick Road, Orient, home of Helen Hawker.

The incident occurred Thursday between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., according to Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff R. L. Phillips.

Fingerprint samples were found in the house by Deputy Don Thompson and an agent from London's Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification.

Weapons taken include a Smith and Wesson .38 caliber handgun with six-inch barrel and a 12 gauge Winchester shotgun with new stock. The thieves also took a silver serving ladle.

Entry was gained through a front porch screen and an unlocked living room door.

The house was ransacked. Ray Stover, 15846 Cromley Road, Ashville, told deputies that thieves took 75 gallons of regular gasoline from a storage tank on his property. A lock was broken on the tank.

Police Check Grand Theft

Circleville Police investigated a reported grand theft at midnight Thursday night at the General Electric parking lot on E. Ohio St.

According to the report, Dixie L. Morris, 24, Route 22 West, told police that she left her car in the parking lot and went inside to work. When she returned at the end of her shift, she discovered that thieves had broken the wing glass on her van and gained entry to the vehicle.

Once inside, the culprits removed her tape player, CB radio, microphone, and her billfold, which contained credit cards. Total value of the missing merchandise was set at $291. Ptl. Alan Hawks investigated the incident.

According to National Geographic Society, no one knows the origins of the inhabitants of Madagascar, the world's fourth largest island.
